

RAILWAYS WORKING TO REPAIR DAMAGE CAUSED BY FLOODS

President Harrison Announces That Large Forces of Men and Ample Supplies Have Been Assembled Along the Southern.

DEATH LIST IS GROWING AS THE WATERS REcede

Known Victims Number 32, and 10 Persons Are Still Missing—Something Like Normal Conditions Restored in Many Sections.

Seventeen deaths reported Tuesday brought the southeastern flood toll to thirty-two, but all rivers are falling and something like normal conditions obtain in many of the sections overrun with the high waters from the eastern mountain Sunday. Ten persons still are missing, and the property damage is estimated at $15,000,000, principally to railroads, crops and industrial plants.

Eight additional deaths are reported from Bat Cave, a village in Henderson county, on the Rocky Broad river, North Carolina; two from Volga, a small town in Buncombe county, North Carolina; four from Brevard, N. C., and three from the Hickory Nut Gap section of North Carolina. In Asheville, unverified reports say three lives were lost below Marshall, N. C., in the overturning of a boat.

Marked improvement is shown in conditions in North Carolina. The French Broad river in the Asheville region is falling rapidly, and manufacturing plants have begun the work of clearing up debris as a preliminary to the resumption of operations. Train service, however, is still badly demoralized.

Waters Recede Rapidly.
The Catawba river is receding almost as fast as it rose two days ago, when the great wall of water rushed down from the watersheds, carrying bridges, factories and homes before it. Railroad and other utilities companies are using large construction gangs repairing damage in the Catawba valley. Several weeks will be required, it is said, to restore normal train service on some of the railroads, and hundreds of thousands of cotton spindles may be idle for a month. No reports have reached the outside world from Hickory or Lakeville, near the headwaters of the Catawba, since Sunday.

All fears of serious floods in South Carolina have been dispelled by the rapid fall of the Congaree and Broad rivers. Industrial and electric plants in the threatened districts have resumed operations. The greatest loss will be to crops and live stock in the Congaree valley.

The rivers in east Tennessee have reached their crests and begun falling slowly. Some damage was done in South Knoxville, where the waters reached warehouses and homes on lower ground, but the greatest loss will be to crops, several hundred thousand acres having been flooded in the valleys in the extreme eastern part of the state.

Conditions in Virginia and West Virginia are expected to be normal within a day or two.

SOUTHERN PUSHES WORK OF REPAIRS.
Washington, July 18.—Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern railway, today announced that his company has assembled large forces of men and ample supplies for the repair of damage to the Southern in the flood-swept southeastern states. The statement follows:

"While we have been hard hit by the floods, especially on the Catawba river and in the western North Carolina mountains, the first reports of damage are greatly exaggerated. We are falling everywhere today. We have assembled large forces of men and ample supplies everywhere there has been trouble, and have already begun the work of repair. The Southern is being pushed through promptly. It is as yet impossible to estimate time or cost involved, but the real difference between this flood and previous ones in the same territory is that it has hit us in more places at once and we are better prepared to restore normal conditions."

Charlotte, N. C., July 18.—Vice President Copman, of the Southern railway, arrived today from Washington to take charge of the reconstruction and reconstruction of the bridges and tracks of the road washed away in this section and Asheville.

LIST OF DEAD STILL GROWS.
Asheville, N. C., July 18.—The list of the flood's dead reached a total of twenty-eight tonight when reports from the Bat Cave section of North Carolina stated that eight persons had been drowned there Sunday, and that two women, Miss Susie Collins and Miss Pollie Collins, sister and sister-in-law, a little station, 15 miles from Asheville, on the Knoxville division of the Southern railway. Bat Cave is probably the most isolated section of the state, having no railroad, telephone or telegraph connections. It is about 30 miles from Asheville, on the Rocky Broad river.

Other deaths reported today include Mrs. John Heath and son, John Heath, Jr.; Brevard; Mrs. Caldwell Sentele and child; Brevard; Mrs. Edgar Hunt and two small children of Hickory Nut Gap section. To this may be added three lives reported lost in the flood waters below Marshall, and three boys, names yet unknown, reported to have been put out in a small boat from Fletcher, Henderson county, yesterday afternoon. The earlier estimates of property damage throughout the entire valley may be considerably increased when the rivers have returned to normal levels, according to Madison county lumber man today, who stated today that the losses in the flooded sections may reach $12,000,000.

Relief work is being rapidly pushed.

Sweetheart Dies And Doctor Shoots Alleged Betrayer

Girl Had Told Dr. Atwood She Could Not Marry Him Because Dr. Harris Had Wronged Her.

Boston, Mass., July 18.—Two hours after his sweetheart, Dr. Celia Adams, of Brookline, had died from an overdose of a drug, Dr. Eldridge D. Atwood, of Woburn, today shot and probably mortally wounded Dr. Wilfred E. Harris, president of the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy, at the latter's office in the Hotel Westminster in the back bay district. Dr. Atwood disappeared after the shooting, but was later arrested after a brief struggle at the office of his fiancée.

The police say he admitted that he had shot Dr. Harris because Miss Adams had told him yesterday that their marriage could not take place, as Dr. Harris had wronged her. An empty five-chambered revolver and a razor which, the police say, Dr. Atwood admitted he intended to use on his victim, were taken from the prisoner. He was looked up on a charge of assault and battery with intent to murder.

At the city hospital late tonight Dr. Harris was unconscious. His condition was reported as critical.

TOWN DESTROYED BY FLOOD'S SWEEP

No Trace of the 150 Inhabitants of Chimney Rock, N. C.—Some of the Houses Washed Miles.

Spartanburg, S. C., July 18.—According to information brought here tonight by H. A. Marlette, who went to Thermal City, N. C., yesterday in an automobile, the village of Chimney Rock, N. C., near the famous rock of that name, in Rutherford county, was completely washed away by the high waters of Broad river. There were about 150 inhabitants in the town.

According to Mr. Marlette, a party from the nearby towns went to Chimney Rock to try to rescue some of the people caught by the flood, but on account of the body of water surrounding the village they were not able to get close to the houses. The party saw no sign of human life, it was said, but got close enough to hear a dog barking in one of the houses. The postoffice and hotel were washed to a point several miles below the village, to a place known as the Cox place.

A company had just built a new road to the top of Chimney Rock this summer at a cost of $10,000 and this is said to have been completely destroyed. The road will be rebuilt.

Chimney Rock is 25 miles from the nearest railroad.

CASTRO AND HIS WIFE PERMITTED TO ENTER

Secretary Wilson Overrides the Decision of New York Officials.

Washington, July 18.—Freedom to enter the United States, once denied, was granted tonight to former President-elect, Generalissimo Benito M. Castro, and his wife by Secretary Wilson of the labor department, who overruled the decision of the special board denying them admission. Under the secretary's ruling the Castros are free to go to Porto Rico, as they had planned, or to remain indefinitely in the United States.

A telegram ordering immediate release of General and Mrs. Castro, who have been held on Ellis island since their arrival Saturday from Trinidad, was sent tonight to Immigration Commissioner Howe.

In explaining his ruling, Secretary Wilson pointed out that when Castro attempted to enter the United States in 1915, he was refused admission on the grounds that he was a political refugee.

Lightning Hits Camp, Kills Savannah Boy

Macon, Ga., July 18.—A. D. Key, of company D, first infantry, Savannah, was killed by lightning this afternoon at Camp Harris, while doing guard duty during the severe rain and thunderstorm. A. F. Schultz, a Macon soldier, was rendered unconscious by the same bolt. The lightning hit many houses and trees in Macon and the rainfall was 2.30 inches in less than fifty minutes. Eighty-three Atlanta boys, who have failed to pass the physical examinations for enlistment, will return to Atlanta tonight.

SEABOARD TO USE TERMINAL STATION

Plans Are Said to Be on Foot for This Railroad to Discontinue Use of Union Station in Atlanta.

It is reported that the Seaboard Air Line railway, which for many years has been using the old Union station, will change in the near future to the Terminal station. Preparations are said to be in progress for the change.

Charles A. Wickersham, chairman of the board of control of the Terminal station, was asked yesterday about the report. He refused either to confirm or deny it, saying that he could not give out any information regarding the subject at this time. He referred inquiries to W. J. Harahan, president of the Seaboard Air line, in Norfolk. Mr. Harahan could not be reached yesterday.

BRITISH BLACKLIST STIRS WASHINGTON

Vigorous Protest to Be Made Against Order Affecting American Firms. Southern Firms on List.

London, July 18.—The Official Gazette today published an additional list of American individuals and firms placed on the blacklist under the trading with the enemy act, including Charles Cullen, Okla. Fla.; Texas Export and Import company, Galveston; H. Keener, cotton exchange, Galveston; and the Norfolk Smelting and Refining company, Virginia.

Washington, July 18.—Information gathered in an investigation which has been in progress for several weeks probably will be incorporated by the state department in vigorous representations to the London foreign office objecting to the placing of individuals and firms domiciled in the United States upon the blacklist promulgated under the trading with the enemy act. Although the British government in its last communication to the United States upon the subject declared the act was "purely domestic legislation to restrict the activities and trade of persons under British jurisdiction," the investigation made by the state department is said to have convinced officials that in reality that it operates to restrain American commerce.

The department's investigation has been conducted in various sections of the world. A mass of data has been obtained. In Siam one American firm was informed that it would appear upon the blacklist. A had business dealings with a German firm. Neutral steamship companies, including American corporations, are understood to have been informed that if they carried goods to German firms, in neutral countries, such as those in South America, they would be denied the courtesies of British ports, such as Jamaica, where many ships stop to coal and supply.

Scope of Act Broad.
Furthermore, according to statements made here today in official quarters, persons all over the world, including Americans, have been told they would be placed on the blacklist if they have any dealings whatsoever with German concerns. So broad is the scope of the act that should any American firms deal with those whose names appear on the American list they may find themselves added to it.

Publication of a blacklist for American came as no surprise to the state department, which has been following the situation closely. Although withholding formal comment until officially notified of the development, many officials are known to feel that it is not a concern of Great Britain's to interfere in the United States or their branches abroad desire to trade with German firms in other countries. Under the act Great Britain might have the right to specify what merchandise should be carried by her own ships, and has the right to take discriminatory action against the American concerns because of this position. It is said by those who hold it is amply backed by precedent, that the act is a violation of the principle of non-interference in the internal affairs of other nations. The act is a violation of the principle of non-interference in the internal affairs of other nations.

GERMANY MAY RESUME WILD U-BOAT WARFARE

Semi-Officially Intimated New Decision on Submarines Will Be Necessary.

Berlin, July 18.—(Via London).—The active campaign for resumption of submarine warfare in its previous form has assumed new importance from an article by Eugen Zimmerman, general director of The Lokal Anzeiger, whose views usually reflect opinions in government circles.

Herr Zimmerman contemplates the possibility that Great Britain will compel smaller neutral states to adopt an unfriendly, perhaps a hostile attitude towards the central powers, or even to close their frontiers completely against them. He then cites in heavy type his own comment on Germany's acceptance of the American demands in regard to submarine warfare, indicating that circumstances might arise later which would make it impossible to adhere to the restriction on the activity of these craft.

Truth Will Out, Especially When Lee and Bert Talk

Atlanta's Prospects Bright for 'Getting Next Rotary Convention—Everybody Is Sober, 'Cousin Fred' Reports.

By Fred Houser.
Cincinnati, Ohio, July 18.—(Special.) One of the Cincinnati Rotarians met Lee Jordan at Zoo Park last night just after the Atlanta watermelon party, and said: "How many watermelons do you grow in Atlanta a year?"

Lee said: "We shipped 68 cars from Peachtree street up to the time of the preparedness parade on July 4."

"Well, are they all as ice-cold as these?"

Lee referred him to Bert Adams, who is handling Atlanta's temperature. Bert told him Atlanta altitude was so high it was not necessary to ice the melons when eaten there.

We fed 5,000 people and had several hundred melons left. As a climax to the evening's entertainment, Bert enjoyed the display of fireworks, the last being a huge sign which showed Atlanta still wanted the convention for 1917.

The convention has now reached its height, the registration numbering 3,300. Every one praises the hospitality of the Cincinnati Rotarians and their carrying ladies, and all are confident that the convention will be a success.

For Atlanta to win the convention is only a matter of a few days. The decision will be made Saturday by the five delegates, who are expected to place on Thursday. Atlantans are confining their energy to advancing the claims of the Convention City of Dixie. They have never realized before that the convention is so near.

The business sessions are held twice daily, and have been better attended than ever before. The auditorium was unable to hold the assembly yesterday.

Our delegation are all well, hale, happy, hearty and sober. The defeat of the resolution to permit business men to retain their membership in the Rotary club after changing their business or residence took up the greater part of the business session today. This is the fourth time such a resolution has been killed in a Rotary convention. A resolution to make past presidents Rotarians at large for life was voted down.

In the Rotary golf tournament Memphis defeated Cincinnati and Atlanta won from Springfield. Memphis and Atlanta will play in the finals tomorrow.

Salt Lake defeated Louisville two out of three in the men's doubles, tomorrow will play Peoria, Ill., tomorrow in the semi-finals and the winner will meet Salt Lake City Thursday.

ASSOCIATE ROTARIANS
OUT REGULARS AT LUNCH
In the absence of about forty regulars, the Cincinnati Rotarians, who are now in Cincinnati, Ohio, trying to get the next convention for Atlanta of 1917, met for lunch today. The members of the local Rotary took charge of yesterday's luncheon meeting and proceeded with the election of new officers from their membership.

Warner Martin was chosen president and Bryant Grant sergeant-at-arms. The new officers were declared themselves yesterday.

United, a complex, of the Western Union, a telegraphic instrument installed over which alleged messages were sent from the local Rotarians. A great deal of fun was obtained out of this feature.

MEXICAN FIRE GUARDSMEN
Shots Exchanged Across the Border Near El Paso. Guardsmen Suffer No Casualties—Mexican Killed.

El Paso, July 18.—A party of mounted Mexicans exchanged fire with the company of the Ninth Massachusetts Infantry near here. According to reports, the guardsmen were shot at on the opposite bank of the Rio Grande and opened fire. The guardsmen suffered no casualties, but reported they believed they had killed one Mexican.

El Paso, July 18.—A party of mounted Mexicans exchanged fire with the company of the Ninth Massachusetts Infantry near here. According to reports, the guardsmen were shot at on the opposite bank of the Rio Grande and opened fire. The guardsmen suffered no casualties, but reported they believed they had killed one Mexican.

Both General Bell, commanding the El Paso military district, and Lieutenant Colonel Bacon, acting garrison commander in Juarez, denied that they had received official reports of the incident, and both said that it seemed trivial.

The shooting occurred in an isolated district about three miles down the river from El Paso. The Mexicans were doing patrol duty in this section.

RUSSIANS OPEN WAR TO LEMBERG; PANIC IN GALICIA

Retirement of the Teutonic Forces Across the Lipa Removes Last Serious Obstacle to Advance of Czar's Armies.

GREAT DISORDER MARKED TEUTONS' WITHDRAWAL

According to Petrograd, Though Berlin Claims It Was Accomplished Unhindered—Towns in Galicia Being Evacuated.

London, July 18.—General von Linsingen's retirement across the Lipa on the eastern front is considered by critics as removing the last serious obstacle to the advance of the Russians toward Lemberg. Reports from Rome say the retirement of the Teutonic allies has caused a panic in Galicia, where towns are being evacuated. The Russian official communication today refers to the withdrawal as having been in disorder, notwithstanding German declarations that it was accomplished unhindered by the Russians.

Vienna asserts that fresh Russian attacks in the territory southwest of Lutsch were without success, but says that in the Carpathian region near Zabolotze and Tatarov, the Russians have pushed back Austrian advanced posts, although the Austrian main line has been firmly held. In the vicinity of Riga the Russians are vigorously on the offensive against Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army, but all their attacks have been repulsed with heavy losses, according to Berlin.

While Petrograd chronicles further advances against the Turks by the Russian light wing, Constantinople says that in recent days on the central front the Russians have suffered tremendous losses south of the Tchoruk river and that their attacks have become less violent.

TEUTONS DRIVEN ACROSS THE LIPA.

Petrograd, July 18.—(Via London).—A Russian victory over Teutonic forces in southern Volhynia has resulted in their being driven across the River Lipa, and beyond that stream, says a war office statement today. Indications are, the statements add, that the Russian victory was effected in the greatest disorder.

In the Riga region efforts by the Germans to retake positions they had lost were unsuccessful. The official statement says:

"In the Riga region there was an artillery duel. The Germans at many places attempted unsuccessfully to recapture lost trenches. The Russian troops in the Riga region have suffered losses, but they have been repulsed with great success."

"As the result of the latest skillful operations of General Sakharov's troops in Volhynia we gained a victory on July 15 which brought us 15,000 prisoners and 30 guns, as announced yesterday, and enabled us to sweep the enemy completely from the left bank of the lower Lipa, driving him to Krasoff and beyond the river. Judging by the abundance of war material the enemy abandoned he retreated in great disorder. Some of the seventeen heavy guns captured were yesterday already being sent to the front."

"German prisoners captured wear uniforms of all kinds, proving the mixed character of the recent formations."

"Caucasus front: The offensive on our right wing continued yesterday. On July 15th our brave mountain Cosaks and great soldiers courageously dislodged the enemy from powerfully organized positions. In some places they captured two machine guns, a quantity of arms and prisoners."

"In the region of Taurus we captured a complete German company. In the course of the attack of the 15th before Balbut we captured a Turkish flag."

An official communication issued this evening reads:

"In the Caucasus our Cosaks in an impetuous advance in the region of Plastouny took prisoners the number 34 Turkish officers and 500 men and captured two machine guns."

Later information states that a Turkish flag was taken from the enemy. Balbut by Nicholas Brunnene, a mounted orderly belonging to one of our regiments of Caucasian sharpshooters."

AUSTRIANS RETIRE BEFORE RUSSIANS.

Vienna, July 18.—(Via London).—Austrian advanced posts in the region of the Carpathians have been pushed back by a Russian attack, says the official statement today. The main Austrian positions, however, have been firmly held.

In Volhynia, in the region south of Lutsch, Russian attacks failed. An official statement says: "The Russian forces in the region of Lutsch pressed back our advanced posts. Attacks on our main positions failed with great enemy losses."

CHILD LABOR LAW URGED BY WILSON

President Goes to Capitol and States Views to Leaders—Southern Senators Oppose the Measure.

Washington, July 18.—President Wilson went to the capitol today to emphasize his desire that a child labor law be put on the statute books at the present session of congress. To senate leaders he insisted that the child labor bill passed by the house should be made a part of the legislative program to be put through the senate before adjournment.

Determined opposition by southern senators forced the house bill, which would prevent shipment in interstate commerce of goods manufactured wholly or in part by children, out of the imperative program drawn by the democratic caucus last Saturday.

Party Revolt Threatened.
It was left in a secondary position to be considered only if time remained after other measures regarded as more urgent had been disposed of. Mr. Wilson had been told that an effort to force its passage would mean a serious party revolt.

Whether the president's visit accomplished anything more than to bring his position in the matter emphatically to the front, was not apparent tonight. So far as could be learned the democratic steering committee contemplated no change in the caucus program, and no change in the room for another caucus to consider Mr. Wilson's request.

The president's arrival at the capitol was entirely unheralded. Accompanied by two secret service men, he went directly to the president's room and sent for Senator Kern, the majority leader. Later he discussed the subject with Vice President Marshall, Senators Martin, Williams, James and Owen, of the democratic steering committee, and Senators Simmons and Hughes. Senators Martin, Williams and Simmons are among those inclined to favor postponement of action on the child labor bill until next December.

Those who saw the president were reticent. Senator Kern said that the discussion was nothing to get excited about, and so far as he knew, the president's visit would not result in any delay in the contemplated adjournment of congress.

Some Senators Resent.
Some senators who favor early action on the child labor bill said they believed there should be no caucus. Others betrayed some resentment at the president's request, pointing out that the senate already had compromised with the white house on a legislative program, the caucus last week agreeing to delay action on the immigration bill until after the caucus, but which has the support of a majority of the democratic senators.

Wilson is said to have called attention today to the fact that the democratic, republican and progressive parties have agreed to support the child labor legislation. His insistence is said to have been a matter of political expediency, and not a declaration of the democratic platform.

The president also is anxious that the child labor bill be passed. He has urged its passage for federal employees be put through at this session, and it is expected that they expected to reach before adjournment.

REMOVAL BILL GETS A SMALL MAJORITY

Committee Announces Favorable Vote After Executive Session of Half Hour.

Atkinson to Submit Minority Report.

Macon's attempt to have submitted to the people of Georgia a proposed constitutional amendment to remove the capital to that city and her plan to submit to the people of Bibb county and Macon a proposed amendment empowering them to hold a special bond election to pay the expense of such removal will be thrashed out before the legislature. This was decided by an eight to five majority report of the house committee on constitutional amendments, which will be submitted to the house this morning. With the report will be submitted a minority report, the minority being headed by Representative Atkinson of Fulton.

The committee met behind closed doors yesterday afternoon in session adjourned from last Monday, and after brief argument among the members took a vote, which resulted eight for reporting the two bills with recommendation to the house that they do pass, and five against.

The vote of the committee members stood as follows:
For the bill: Davis, of Laurens; LeSueur, of Crawford; Clements, of Irwin; Dorris, of Crisp; Wolcott, of Muscogee; Peacock, of Dougherty; Burroughs, of Morgan; Marshall, of Taylor. Against the bill: Atkinson, of Fulton; Garthwaite, of Barrow; Bale, of Floyd; Roberts, of Hall; Edwards, of Haralson.

the taking yesterday of 1,500 yards of a second line trench west of Pozieres, which had the center of interest for the last 24 hours. The village sits on a high and commanding position and the British now have established themselves on either side of its ruins, into which they continue today pouring a big volume of shell fire.

The Germans were seen using for the first time in this action a poisonous shell which does not explode, but emits an asphyxiating gas. At first sight it may be mistaken for what is known as a "dud," an army term for a shell that has failed to detonate.

GOOD PROGRESS FOR THE BRITISH.

London, July 18.—Substantial progress by the British on a front of 1,000 yards north of Ovillers was announced today by the war office.

"Thick mist and incessant rain still are interfering with our operations in the neighborhood of the Somme, but to the north of Ovillers we made substantial progress last night on a front of 1,000 yards. The enemy were driven out of several strongly defended positions and we captured some prisoners and six machine guns."

"Near Wythachte (Belgium) we made a successful raid into German trenches. Opposite Culchy (German France) a similar attempt by the enemy was frustrated by our fire."

The British official statement issued at midnight reads:

"After a bombardment with lacrymatory and gas shells the Germans commenced an attack against our positions in the vicinity of Longueval and Delville wood. Heavy fighting is still in progress."

"Elsewhere there is nothing of importance to report."

GERMANS ATTACK FRENCH LINES.

Paris, July 18.—The Germans made an attack last night on the French line south of the Somme and gained ground in the vicinity of Blaches, the war office announced today.

The German attack was delivered against the French positions from Blaches to La Maisonnette. Several attempts to take La Maisonnette failed, with heavy loss to the Germans, the statement says, but groups of the attacking forces spread along the canal on the east side of Blaches, where the fighting continues.

A German raid on Hill 304 on the Verdun front, west of the Meuse, was broken up by French infantry fire. East of the river there was fighting with grenades in which the advantage rested with the French.

The artillery was active about La Loupe and Chantilly.

The statement follows:

"South of the Somme the Germans attacked yesterday evening and last night our positions from the village of Blaches as far as La Maisonnette. Notwithstanding repeated efforts, which cost them heavy losses, they were not able to obtain possession of La Maisonnette. On the left bank of the river (Verdun front), a surprise attack against our trenches at Hill 304 was repulsed by our fire. On the right bank of the river the night was marked by fighting with grenades in the vicinity of Verdun. The enemy was repulsed everywhere. There was active artillery fighting in the region of La Loupe and Chantilly."

"On the remainder of the front calm prevailed throughout the day and night. The enemy did not renew his attempts against La Maisonnette. Heavy fighting continued from some houses which they held in the village of Blaches."

"On the Verdun front, the importance of the day was that the British repulsed an attack on the night of July 18."

"Belgian communication: 'Last night a Belgian detachment carried out a raid in the direction of the enemy trenches north of Dixmude. It succeeded in penetrating one of these, killing the greater part of the occupants and bringing back unwounded prisoners.'"

"During the day the artillery was slightly active."

ATTACK REPULSED, GERMANS REPORT.

Berlin, July 18.—(Via London).—The official German statement of today says that the Franco-British forces on both sides of the Somme devoted yesterday to artillery preparation.

Heavy attacks last night by the British against Pozieres, on the Somme front, and positions to the east, were repulsed, as were attacks by the French at Blaches, La Maisonnette, Barleux and Soyécourt, according to the official headquarters statement today.

The text of the statement as to the western front follows:

"At numerous points along the northern front enemy patrols were repulsed by our defense. In a British trench east of Vermelle, a German patrol captured one officer, four non-commissioned officers and eleven men."

"On both sides of the Somme artillery preparation was in progress during the day. In the evening strong attacks against Pozieres and the position to the eastward and also against Blaches, La Maisonnette, Barleux and Soyécourt were everywhere repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy."

"The British used there has been lively artillery activity and minor hand grenade engagements."

ARTILLERY ACTIVE ON SALONIKI FRONT.

Paris, July 18.—Official advices received from Saloniki under date of Monday say that cannonading has been in progress along the entire Saloniki front.

BELGIANS GAIN IN GERMAN AFRICA.

Havre, France, July 18.—Belgian troops operating in German East Africa have reached the shore of Lake Victoria, and in a seven-hour engagement fought on July 7 they dispersed the Germans opposing their advance, taking the German commandant prisoner and inflicting a number of losses on the Germans, according to an official statement issued by the Belgian war office today.

The review covers the operations of General Tombeur's army during a period beginning June 25. Briefly, the statement says, these operations were as follows:

"After defeating the enemy on June 25 one day's march east of Baramulo, Colonel Molitor's brigade continued to advance eastward, with the object of occupying the southwestern shore of Lake Victoria and cutting the railway southward of the lake. The enemy's forces still holding out in the region were thrown upon Kagera river and Lake Victoria."

"The Belgian troops on June 27 reached the shore of Lake Victoria at two points—Namtrembe and Basira Yombo. They made a number of prisoners. In a sharp engagement lasting seven hours, fought on July 7, the enemy was dispersed. The commandant of the German colony was taken prisoner and the enemy lost a number of killed."

"The Belgian troops bore themselves admirably. Major Rouling was twice wounded at the head of his regiment."

"No important news has been received from Colonel Elsen's brigade operating in the Kaumbura-Kitiga region."

RAILWAYS WORKING TO REPAIR DAMAGE

forward in the stricken sections, and the greater part of the 1,200 men who were thrown out of employment by the destruction of twenty-five industrial plants are being put to work clearing away the flood wrecked and debris as fast as the waters go down. All the homeless victims of the flood are being housed and fed at the city high school. At 10 o'clock tonight it was stated that the last of the 283 passengers who were marooned on the Southern Railway's passenger train, the Carolina Special, four miles below Marshall, had reached the city, and that all were being cared for by the railway authorities, who hired every available automobile here to transport the passengers to the city.

Other trains marooned at Tryon, Saluda, Marion and Connelly Springs have been reached by Southern railway officials and the passengers taken off in automobiles.

It is estimated tonight that more than one hundred miles of the railway tracks have been washed away in the flooded districts, and the Southern's losses are growing every hour. The total being now placed at $1,000,000.

RIVER SEARCHED FOR BODIES.

Charlotte, N. C., July 18.—With two men who were working on the Southern Railway's Catawba river bridge at Belmont Sunday still unaccounted for, rescuers today searched the river down the river in boats on a hunt for bodies.

In addition to the four bridge victims and two rescuers brought out of tree tops to the Charlotte side of the river, a body of a woman, identified as P. H. Stowe, was brought from the Gastonia side today of three other bodies. The bodies were recovered from the river by the Southern Railway's Catawba section, and two negro laborers being the men saved. Ross and Stowe today received donations of several hundred dollars from Charlotte citizens and a subscription list has been opened.

The river had receded sufficiently today for passenger-carrying skiffs and batons to be used to reach the victims. The river had receded sufficiently today for passenger-carrying skiffs and batons to be used to reach the victims.

SOUTHERN TRAINS STOLE MAROONED.

Sparksburg, S. C., July 18.—Developments here today following the fall of the water in the rivers of the Piedmont section reveal no new loss of life or damage to property.

The railroads are rushing forces from all sections to the scene of the disaster on the lines out of this city. At headquarters of the transportation division of the Southern railway it is stated tonight that it may be possible to operate trains to the Columbia and Asheville by Saturday. The main line between Sparksburg and Charlotte, where the Catawba river at Belmont, it is stated, will not be open for ten days.

The Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio officials say they will operate a coal train, marooned at Bostic, N. C., over the line into the mountains, and that by Friday they will resume traffic to Marion, N. C. No promises are made as to trains through to Johnson City, Tenn.

The Southern railway expects to have its marooned passenger trains out of the mountains by tomorrow afternoon. There are still a number of passengers on these trains, some of them ill, and including children. Food and other supplies have been sent to the trains by persons walking over the line.

The loss through Sparksburg county in the destruction of highway bridges increased.

METZ, ACCUSED OF RECOMMENDING SYSTEM OF HIS OWN, DECLARES TREASURY DEPARTMENT ASKED FOR A GOOD REPORT.

Metz, Accused of Recommending System of His Own, Declares Treasury Department Asked for a Good Report.

That Charles James Metz, president of the Audit Company of the South, after criticizing the bookkeeping system of the state treasurer in his report to Governor Nat E. Harris on the condition of the state treasury, "recommended a system of his own for use in the office," was charged by J. Blalock, bookkeeper in the office of State Treasurer Speer, before the joint committee of the house and senate, appointed to investigate the audit, at its session in room 402 of the Kimball house last night.

Mr. Metz retorted by saying, "This is the only department of the state upon which we were asked to make a favorable report."

With the exception of a somewhat personal colloquy between Mr. Metz and Commissioner of Agriculture J. D. Price, when Mr. Price was explaining the workings of his department and those phases of his office system criticized in the report, this was the only suggestion of personalities or heat featuring the hearing, which lasted from 8 o'clock to 11:45 last night. Then the committee adjourned to meet Thursday afternoon at 3, and resume its investigation.

All Departments Heard.

Mr. Metz has been requested to be present at the next hearing, as Senator Walker, a member of the committee, said he wants to ask him some more questions. The hearing of the state department heads were heard last night, and none will probably be needed further, since each one last night explained apparently to the committee the workings of his department, the management of his respective office falling under the auditor's criticism.

When the treasurer's office was reached, Chief Clerk J. O. Anderson read a statement prepared by his chief, who was absent on account of illness. In reference to the auditor's criticism of the keeping of the treasurer's accounts, Mr. Speer says:

"The system of keeping the state's accounts is such that they are kept in accurate daily precision and order, and which has been in use since 1876. It being the system of Professor Moore, of Moore Business College, and after its adoption, and following the constitutional convention in 1877, Robert Thomas, then quoted by Mr. Blalock as saying of it:

"We have looked the treasury and the state department over, and we have found that the system of bookkeeping is the best in the world."

The Metz report criticizes the office because of the system of bank examination, and the fact that the state department heads were heard last night, and none will probably be needed further, since each one last night explained apparently to the committee the workings of his department, the management of his respective office falling under the auditor's criticism.

"As to the opinion advanced by the auditor with reference to bank examination, and his recommendation that the banking department be separated from the state treasury, I respectfully submit the fact that the auditor made no examination or investigation of the bank examination, nor was he required to do so. The resolution authorizing his employment, therefore, I respectfully submit that his opinion as to the value of bank examination and his opinion as to the advisability of the separation is merely an opinion without investigation and should not be entitled to any more consideration at the hands of your committee than that of any other individual uninformed as to conditions."

Supplementing this statement, Mr. Blalock said:

"Mr. Metz has not examined the treasurer's books. He did not. Mr. Metz recommended, after Mr. Blalock made his audit, that a system of his own be used."

Here Chairman Turner interrupted Mr. Blalock, cautioning him against the use of the word "recommendation." "But," continued the speaker, "I want here to state positively that Mr. Metz's system of bookkeeping is the best in the world."

"Gentlemen, this is the only department of the state upon which we were asked to make a favorable report."

Chairman Turner called Mr. Metz to order; but a moment later he was able to have read into the record the concluding words of his sentence, which was "report."

Then he said a favorable report was made solely by the auditor, it was warranted, and he paid a high compliment to the personnel and individual efficiency of the treasurer's office. He said the system and methods employed only were at fault.

"I firmly believe," he said, "they do the very best they can, considering the number of banks they have to deal with, and the smallness of the force."

"Were they entitled to a good report?" asked Senator Walker.

"Yes," replied Metz, "and they got it."

"Wasn't it then, only natural that they should not make a favorable report?" asked Walker.

"Perhaps," replied Metz, "it was natural, but I think it was not proper to make the request for it."

"Do you assign any ulterior motive?" asked Walker.

"No," but not many departments would have the temerity to do it."

The first hour of the committee's time was consumed in a lengthy statement by Commissioner of Agriculture J. D. Price, and with the passing of a quarter of 12, the session was over.

Secretary of State Cook followed with most lucid explanation of how his department is run, and he explained fully and satisfactorily the few features of his system under criticism by Mr. Metz.

Concluding his statement, Mr. Metz said:

"I was the farthest thing from our mind to do anything but to report to Mr. Cook, but merely to suggest that his office adopt a better system of accounting. It applies, too, to every department in the state."

Asked Mr. Cook:

"Did you find any evidence that I have received any compensation of any nature from the automobile tax collection?"

"None whatever," said Mr. Metz, with emphasis.

Weekly Press Association Declines to Take Any Stand on Highway Bill and Other Pending Legislation.

CHAMBER ENTERTAINS VISITORS AT LUNCH

A luncheon will be tendered by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at 1 o'clock today at the South-eastern Fair buildings at Lakewood to members of the Georgia Weekly Press association, members of the general assembly and to Governor Nat Harris.

R. F. Maddox, formerly president of the chamber of commerce, will preside as toastmaster.

Speeches will be made by Governor Harris, President G. Ogden Persons, of the senate, and Speaker of the House William H. Burwell and others.

The Georgia Weekly Press association, which has been holding its meetings at Decatur, Ga., will hold its morning session in one of the fair buildings at Lakewood. They will adjourn for lunch at the park. Members of the general assembly will be transported in autos from the state capitol to the fair grounds, the autos leaving the capitol at 12:15 o'clock.

Decatur, Ga., July 18.—(Special).—Two decided trends were strongly in evidence during today's sessions of the Georgia Weekly Press association here; one, the determination on the part of the editors to convince the public that newspaper making is, after all, a business proposition, and that the laborer is worthy of his hire, and second, a strong disinclination to pass any resolutions which might partake of a political nature. To the latter may be attributed the failure of resolutions advocating a highway commission bill and a bill favoring the abolition of trading stamps. Both bills were warmly advocated and met with little or no opposition. It was brought to the attention of the editors, however, that it was against the traditions of the association to take action of a political nature, so action on the highway resolution, introduced by Trox Bankston, of the West Point News, was deferred, and the trading stamp resolution, introduced by R. L. Beacham, of the Laurens Citizen, was tabled after a close vote.

Tuesday night's session brought to an end a most enjoyable day, which had included an old-fashioned barbecue at the Decatur Athletic club, a trip to Stone Mountain in special trolleys, and a ramble up the largest hill of solid granite in the world. Wednesday morning the editors will bid farewell to the city which has treated them so hospitably, and become the guests of Atlanta for the day. They will leave over the Central for Savannah. Special cars will carry the visitors at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning from the chamber of commerce building in Atlanta to the Southeastern fair grounds, where the morning will be devoted to a business session. At 1 o'clock they, with the state legislature, will be joint guests at the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon.

Denouncing Trading Stamps. R. L. McKenney, of The Macon News, denounced the issuing of trading stamps and coupons as an evil which had been introduced into the state by the state legislature, and declared that money used in this way was diverted from its legitimate channels to the pockets of the state treasury. He showed that advertising in Macon papers had materially decreased since the introduction of trading stamps in his city.

One of the most interesting addresses of the afternoon was by Ben A. Neal, of The Washington Reporter, on the importance of educating the public through the newspaper as a business enterprise. This could not be done, said Mr. Neal, until uniform business regulations were adopted by all the editors, and he advocated appointment of a standing committee to prepare and recommend regulations to this end. The same note was sounded by C. M. Methvin, of The Eastman Times-Journal, who said that while the banker and merchant have succeeded in running their businesses at a profit, the newspaper editor has failed to receive results commensurate with his labor.

Materials Still High. James L. Wells, of the Whitaker Paper company, said that the high prices and prospects, failed to hold out any very bright prospects for a reduction in the price of newsprint, and also pointed out that if the members of the Fourth Estate are going to prosper, they must co-operate in increasing the price of their products and "stop selling advertising at a price less than it costs to produce it."

Two addresses scheduled for the program were not delivered. Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, and W. F. Anderson, of The Macon Telegraph, failing to attend. It was stated that both had been tied up by the storm in the Carolinas.

Thanks to the city of Decatur, to the Decatur board of trade, to Hill C. Tuggle, who prepared the barbecue to the Decatur Boy Scouts and to Agnes Scott college for use of its auditorium were expressed in the morning session. W. S. Wardlaw, representing The Journal of Labor, explained that the campaign of Atlanta printers to encourage the buying of home printing was in no way intended as an invasion of plants in the state. Georgia's own home printing, he said, was to prevent the purchase of work done in the north, and he suggested that other Georgia cities might well adopt the same plan.

A unanimous vote of thanks was given Mr. Hester, recognizing his efforts for his untiring work for the association.

Emmett Houser, of Fort Valley, was also extended the thanks of the association for the twelve crates of "Peach county" peaches donated to the barbecue.

The morning session included an address by Francis Mangum, editor of The Forest Blade, a Savannah paper, on "The Editorial Page," an address by C. M. Methvin, editor of The Eastman Times-Journal, on "Our Professional Honor," and a talk by John H. Jones, editor of The LaGrange Reporter, on the "Moral Talk on the Businessman's Responsibility."

A discussion on newspaper news in general was participated in by Clifford Grubb, of The World City Local; E. E. Lee, editor of The Warrenton Clipper; and A. S. Hardy, editor of The Gainesville News.

DESPITE HEAVY RAINS CROWDS HEAR DORSEY

Rousing Receptions Given Atlanta Candidate at Cuthbert, Arlington, Fort Gaines.

BY BRITT CRAIG. (Special Staff Correspondent.)

Cuthbert, Ga., July 18.—(Special).—Impeded by heavy rains that stopped railroad traffic by washouts, Hugh Dorsey was forced to use a buggy, an automobile and a train to reach Cuthbert today so as not to disappoint an eager crowd of Randolph voters, who gave him a spirited reception. Tonight he is conferring with supporters over a campaign that is predicted to sweep the community in a Dorsey triumph.

The Cuthbert reception covered an encouraging day, during which he delivered addresses at Arlington and Fort Gaines, at the latter of which an immense gathering came from all parts of Clay county.

Being compelled to remain to shake the hands of hundreds of his audience at Fort Gaines, the speaker came near missing connections for his Cuthbert engagement. The entire town of Arlington and hundreds of voters from Calhoun and Early counties turned out to hear him in his first open-air address, at the close of which a move was put on foot to organize Dorsey clubs. Two hundred or more met him at the train this morning.

Macon, Ga., July 18.—(Special).—In just one hour's time this afternoon, from 1 to 2 o'clock, a total of 3.35 inches of rain fell in Macon, shattering all records for that length of time. It was a veritable cloudburst, and as a result the city sewer system was inadequate to carry off the surplus water, resulting in basements of stores being flooded and considerable other damage done.

On Broadway, at Poplar, an old sewer caved in, the hole left in the street being equal to a good sized room. The water stood three feet deep on Broadway at this point, pouring into stores and out that street.

In the rear of the Brown house, between Broadway and Third street, another sewer caved in, flooding Abbott Bros. repair shop, the Mallory Mill Supply company, Gilmer's service station and other buildings. Nine houses occupied by negroes were also flooded. The basement of the big Dannenberg department store was also flooded, causing considerable damage.

ARMY HOSPITAL TRAIN OF TEN PULLMAN CARS

Washington, July 18.—A hospital train of ten Pullman cars, designed by the army medical department, has been ordered from the Pullman shops at Chicago. Five of the cars are to be equipped with regular hospital beds and have large side doors for loading and unloading stretchers. One will carry a complete operating room and another a kitchen large enough to care for over two hundred sick.

The train will be painted maroon with the insignia of the army medical department. Others will be contracted for, if necessary.

Augusta, Ga., July 18.—(Special).—Frank Powell, a well-known producer of photoplays, will arrive in Augusta tomorrow with a company of screen artists for the purpose of photographing a number of scenes for a new picture drama which he is producing.

Powell is well known in Augusta, having directed the production of "The Valley of the Missing," which was made here several years ago and had quite a successful run. He is now producing a picture for himself, and was so well pleased with local scenes and the courtesy accorded him on his last visit that he has perfected arrangements to return.

CARTERSVILLE CROWD PLEASED WITH HARRIS

Governor Pays Respects to Opponents—Discusses the Stripling Case.

Cartersville, Ga., July 18.—(Special.) Governor Nat E. Harris addressed a large audience here today in the interest of his campaign for re-election to the governorship of Georgia and was accorded an attentive and respectful hearing. He spoke for an hour and fifteen minutes, and briefly reviewed the high points of his administration. It was his belief that his stand in behalf of the present effective prohibition laws was the cause of opposition to his receiving a second term, saying that when he included in his call for an extraordinary session of the legislature the item to consider the anti-liquor selling bill, he was destined to get the bitter antagonism of every interest engaged in the traffic. Governor Harris was accompanied by his wife, and they were joined by friends at the Park hotel, after which they returned to Atlanta.

Pays Respects to Opponents.
Governor Harris paid his respects very briefly to Dr. L. G. Hardman and Joseph E. Pottle. He spoke of Hugh M. Dorsey at some length.

A writer in the Constitution this morning, said Governor Harris, using the following words about Mr. Dorsey: "He is one of the few executive officers who have been forced to work under the present system and what handicap the prosecution was forced to work under. He is equipped to see the better side of the necessity of every interest respecting rather than overthrowing the acts of the courts. Probably Mr. Dorsey is indeed better able to judge of these matters by reason of having always appeared upon the side of the prosecution, said Governor Harris."

The governor said Mr. Dorsey recommended to him during the year in which he has been in office for executive clemency in seventeen cases. "Six of these," said the governor, "were paroles that he recommended should be granted. Seven were commutations, two from death to life imprisonment, all of which he recommended. In four of the cases he stated that he offered no objections. In all of these cases there had been a jury trial and a verdict of guilty and yet Mr. Dorsey recommended that these verdicts be set aside and clemency be extended to the applicants and in every case he did the right thing and the recommendation was followed by the executive."

Discusses Stripling Case.
Governor Harris took up the Stripling case and declared that he was glad Mr. Dorsey was on his side in this matter. For if the press reports can be believed, he says that if he had promised the little girl, as the governor did, he would have pardoned her father, Governor Harris then stated that his promise was only to turn Stripling loose during his term. No time was mentioned other than this. He never agreed to turn him loose by any particular date, nor did he specify any month or day of that term. All reports to the contrary, he says, are utterly untrue. He thought it right to remind Mr. Dorsey that there was no year of his term yet left. Then he added: "I desire to say now to the public, once and for all, that I will discharge my duty to this prisoner, to his daughter and the people of this state before I quit the office of governor, but I shall take my own time to do the term and shall not allow that time to be fixed for me by another. I am willing to hear from anyone who desires to present any matter to me of course, but I have a habit of taking my own course about matters like this."

Answering further Mr. Dorsey's attack concerning the governor's recent statement, that he would pardon any gentlemanly convict who expressed his desire to enter the army, Governor Harris said that no such statement had ever been made by him; even the published reports had not gone this far. Only one case of the kind had occurred before him, the application of Ernest H. Woodruff, who was convicted in DeKalb superior court at June term, 1915, for carrying a pistol without license and received an alternative sentence of six months in the penitentiary or a fine of $50. The young man could not pay the fine. He was a member of the national guard and his company had been ordered to the mobilization camp. On recommendation of the prison commissary, on the request of the captain of his company in the national guard the applicant was pardoned June 29. If Mr. Dorsey can make anything out of this contrary to the rules of the military service he can do so, but the governor has been able to do so anyone who has advised him. Probably Mr. Dorsey says that he is a member of the national guard, though his experience may fall a little short.

OTHER CANDIDATES WON'T

QUITE DO, SAYS POTTLE
Cairo, Ga., July 18.—(Special.) Joseph E. Pottle spoke here to a crowd of six or seven hundred people at the courthouse at the noon hour of city council. He was cheered many times for several minutes during his speech. He scored Hugh Dorsey for being unimposed on by the state in all matters and at the same time representing the Louisville and Nashville railroad against the state. He told the people that Dr. Hardman is a fine fellow and a good doctor and has plenty of money, but says that the state of Georgia is not in need of surgical operations just at this time. He also says that he is ready to take off his hat to any old confederate veteran, but thinks that Nat Harris is not an active enough man to handle the affairs of the state of Georgia.

AS BIG FLOOD RECEDES DAMAGE IS REPAIRED

Wire and Rail Communication Is Being Restored Out of Atlanta Northward.

The abatement of torrents of rain falling in the Carolinas the last few days has brought relief to the flood-stricken areas—the western part of North Carolina and a part of the Piedmont region of the Carolinas—according to reports received here last night. Waters were reported to be falling everywhere.

President Fairfax Harrison, of the Southern railway, last night issued a statement at Washington to the effect that the road's damage could not yet be estimated, but that hundreds of men were being rushed to the damaged parts of the road's lines for repair work. It is unofficially estimated that the road has suffered $1,000,000 loss as the result of bridges washing away and tracks being damaged.

The Seaboard Air Line, it is understood, has not been so hard hit, and it is not believed that its property damage will reach this high mark.

However, the Seaboard Air Line refused Tuesday to continue routing Southern trains over its lines between Columbia, S. C., and Hamlet, N. C.

Rail communication over the Southern has not yet been established to Charlotte. The Southern is operating four locals daily to Gastonia, near which point the road's bridge over the Catawba river washed away on Sunday afternoon. There is little chance for any trains to move between Gastonia and Lynchburg, Va., according to reports from the local office, but the schedule has been straightened out between Lynchburg and Washington.

Lynchburg is reached by the trains being routed through Knoxville, Tenn., via Bristol, and over the Norfolk and Western to the main line at Lynchburg. Nos. 37 and 38, the New York-New Orleans limited, is running over this route five hours late.

The Western Union Telegraph company announced last night that it has secured communication with Charlotte, N. C., and that they are operating five direct wires to this point. Telegraphic communication with Asheville was secured Tuesday, and two wires are now operating between Atlanta and this point.

The Western Union reported, though, that it is still impossible to get in touch with a number of the "way" stations. In many cases the wires of the Southern Bell Telephone company are being used for telegraphic purposes.

The telephone company is still experiencing trouble with its lines in the Carolinas, although the condition was reported as much improved. Large gangs of workmen have been rushed to the Carolinas for repair work.

All railroads and both the telephone and telegraph companies estimated that it will require two weeks or more to restore normal conditions on their lines in the Carolinas.

PEACH COUNTY GETS FAVORABLE REPORT

Constitutional Amendments Committee of House Votes for New County.

The advocates of the creation of Peach county yesterday won their first fight when the house committee on constitutional amendments recommended the Peach county bill for passage. Chairman Myrick will report this recommendation to the house this morning.

As the name of the proposed county indicates, it has the distinctive feature of being located in the midst of one of the richest peach growing sections of the south. Its territory would take in the western part of Houston county and the northern part of Macon county, including the town of Marshallville. The thriving little city of Fort Valley, in Houston county, which is the center of the surrounding peach territory, would be the site of the new county.

The committee yesterday afternoon declined to take action upon the creation of Simmons county, which was hotly contested before the committee.

HOTELS AND RESORTS HOTELS AND RESORTS

Cool—no mosquitos. Grove Park Inn
Sunset Mountain, Asheville, N. C.

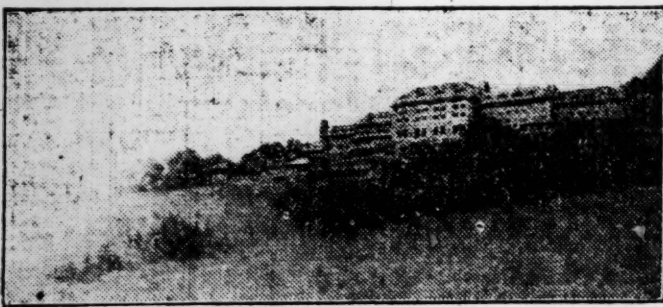

—the finest Resort Hotel in the World. It is absolutely fireproof and open all the year.

The 120-acre, 18-hole, golf course is the finest in the South—it is a blue grass course. All the water used at the Inn comes from the slopes of Mount Mitchell, the highest mountain east of the Rockies, nearly seven thousand feet altitude. The milk and cream come from Biltmore Dairy on the estate of the late Geo. W. Vanderbilt.

It is the cleanest, most sanitary hotel ever built. Every floor is tile. Every bedroom has Mosaic tile covered with French rugs made at Aubusson, France. The foods are the finest money can buy. The kitchen is spotless white tile to the roof and pure white Mosaic tile floors. The buildings are built of great mountain boulders—some of the walls are five feet thick.

We are three and a half miles from the railroad. The street cars are not allowed to come near enough to be heard. We burn coke—not soft coal. Automobiles not allowed near the building during the night. Thus we have no smoke, no dust, no train noise. We have pure air, common-sense, digestible food, quiet in the bedrooms at night, the finest Orchestra outside of New York and Boston, a great organ, and an atmosphere where refined people and busy business men with their families find great comfort and a good time.

KILLED BY LIVE WIRE.

Leonard J. Turner Killed on Tuesday Morning.

While at work with a wire crew at the Inman Yards early Tuesday, Leonard J. Turner, an electrician in the employ of the Southern railway, took hold of a live wire and was hurled to his death, 20 feet below. It is believed that injuries sustained in the fall instead of the electric shock produced death.

Fellow workmen of the injured line-man summoned an ambulance, but before it could reach the scene of the accident he had died. The body was brought as far as the Simpson street crossing on a switch engine and there transferred to a waiting undertaker's wagon from H. M. Patterson & Co. establishment. Funeral arrangements will be announced from Patterson's chapel later.

Turner resided with his wife at 122 Clifton avenue.

Renew Your Health
in Nature's Way

COSTS YOU NOTHING IF YOU REPORT NO BENEFIT

It is wonderful how quickly and surely Nature regenerates the health and vitality, even from the most serious and chronic diseases, after the blood has been thoroughly purified from its accumulated poisons by drinking the water from the celebrated Shivar Mineral Spring. This water possesses the peculiar power of dissolving and literally washing out the poisonous impurities from the blood putting the stomach, liver and kidneys and all other vital organs in perfect condition so that the recuperative power of Nature may effect their cure. If you suffer from dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, rheumatism, neuralgia, gallstones, liver or kidney diseases or any chronic ailment (except cancer and consumption), you are cordially invited to accept Mr. Shivar's remarkable guarantee offer, which is equivalent to a three weeks' visit to his Spring with no charge for the water if you report no benefit.

It is a grave mistake to assume that a case is incurable simply because remedies prepared by human skill have not seemed to benefit you. I believe this is the most wonderful Mineral Spring that has ever been discovered for its waters have either restored or benefited nearly 100,000 sufferers while less than two in a hundred have reported no benefit. Match your faith in this Spring against my pocketbook by signing the letter below.

Shivar Spring,
Box 105-E, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Water. I agree to give it a fair trial in accordance with instructions contained in the booklet you will send, and if I report no benefit you agree to refund the price of the water in full on receipt of the two empty demijohns which I agree to return within thirty days.

SALE OF AUTO PLANT.

Jeffery Factory Passes Into New Hands.

An interesting deal to the automobile world is that that consummated recently when the plant of the Thomas B. Jeffery company, one of Kenosha's (Wis.) largest manufacturers of cars and one of the largest pleasure and truck motor car companies in the United States, passes into new hands.

Announcement was made a few days ago that the sale of all the stock of the company had been made to Lee, Higginson & Co., of Boston, Mass., and Charles W. Nash, of Flint, Mich. No statement had been given out in advance of the possible close of negotiations which had been under way for some time and the announcement of the sale came as a great surprise to many of the men in the inner circles of the Jeffery organization.

Charles W. Nash, one of the best known automobile men in the whole country, being former president of the General Motors Company, of Flint, Mich. The taking over of the big Jeffery company by Mr. Nash and other associates will be read with much interest by auto dealers and distributors in the south.

TO FULTON'S BRIDGES

Four Wooden Structures, Destroyed by Recent High Water, Are Being Replaced.

The Fulton county public works committee has received complete reports of the damage done to county roads and bridges by the recent rains. Chairman Oscar Mills announced that the damage would not exceed $35,000, which is less than the rough estimate of an earlier date. Four wooden bridges have been washed away in the northern section of the county. One on Utoy creek was lifted from its foundations by the rising waters, and drifted on down the creek toward the Chattahoochee river.

The damage is now being rapidly repaired and Chairman Oscar Mills expects them to be in proper condition before long.

Going-Away Party for Miss Virginia Bowman

An ideal summer-time party was the tea given yesterday by Mrs. W. D. Ellis, Jr., in compliment to Miss Virginia Bowman, who leaves Saturday for an extended stay in New York.

The guests were assembled in the late afternoon at Mrs. Ellis' home, in Ansel Park—a congenial company of the mutual friends of hostess and honor guest, and house and porch were gay with mid-summer blooms for their reception.

A profusion of gladioli in their red and yellow shades were used throughout the reception floor, and a daintily appointed tea table was decorated with yellow daisies and gladioli, a large silver centerpiece of the flowers being encircled by smaller vases of the same. The porch was inviting in its warm weather appointments, and there was picturesque completeness in hanging baskets of flowering vines and in growing plants and flowers.

In the receiving party with Mrs. Ellis and Miss Bowman were Miss Theo Prioleau, Mrs. David C. Black, Mrs. William Kiser, Mrs. Robert Maddox, Mrs. Maud Barker Cobb, Mrs. Robert Foreman, Mrs. Julian Field, Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright.

Mrs. Ellis wore a becoming gown of light blue tulle and chiffon. Miss Bowman's charming costume was of rose tulle embroidered in silver, the tulle combined with shaded tulle in the colors of sweetpeas.

For Miss Tynes.

The first in a series of pretty parties to be given in honor of Miss Hattie Lou Tynes, whose engagement to Mr. Paul Mote was announced last week, was given in Sunday's paper, was the card party, at which Miss Alice Denton entertained last Friday afternoon for Miss Tynes at the East Lake Country club. The occasion was in the form of an announcement party, the announcement of the engagement being made in a unique form. Each guest was handed an envelope to hold to place together the contents to form a sentence, and all the sentences together would give an interesting piece of news, the "news" being the formal announcement of Miss Tynes' engagement.

All details were carried out in pink. After the game a delightful salad course was served, the table placed in the palm room, having for its centerpiece a long-handled basket of pink roses, the handle tied with tulle at each plate was placed a single long-stemmed pink rosebud. The placecards were a miniature bride and groom on a pink background. The guests of honor were presented with a book. In the evening the prize, this was also won by the charming bride-elect.

Co. for Injuries.

Alleging personal injuries, J. W. Hightower Tuesday filed suit for $5,000 in the city court against the Georgia Railway and Power company. He claims one of the railway company's cars struck a buggy in which he was riding at the corner of Pulliam street and Central avenue on June 29.

The Virginia and Southwestern railway, a subsidiary line of the Southern railway, with a mileage of 240.14 miles, its lines extending from Bristol, Va., Tenn., to St. Charles, Va., and to Mountain City, Tenn., and from Moccasin Gap, Va., to Bulls Gap, Tenn., has been leased by the Southern Railway company and will be operated as its Appalachian division, the change being effective from July 1, according to an announcement just made by President Fairfax Harrison. The Virginia and Southwestern has heretofore been operated independently, but by the same officers as the Southern railway. It reaches the coal fields of southwestern Virginia and handles about two million tons of coal per year.

We cut prices so we won't be afflicted with summer dullness. It is more profitable to get what you can by selling cheap than to hold on to the goods and get nothing.

Women of South Georgia Rallying to Dorsey's Banner

Struck by His Sincerity and His Plea for Upholding of Courts, They Show Unprecedented Interest in the Campaign.

BY BRITT CRAIG.

(Special Staff Correspondent.)
Colquitt, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)— If south Georgia follows the lead of its women folk it will be found trailing the Hugh Dorsey band wagon. I have never seen an office-seeker more politically popular with the ladies—women of every rank and creed, style and age.
—College girls, young women, middle-aged wives, gray and wrinkled mothers.

From the way they attend Dorsey's speeches, you might suspect he was a political Francis Bushman. For the most part those who are attending Dorsey's speeches are mothers, but there are many students, too, and the young wives, who take a keen interest in the affairs and welfare of their husbands.

Some of them come with notebooks,
conclusive evidence of serious purpose.
Some come with male escorts, others
come alone, as well as guards her fireside—that is if she be competent of either—and likewise controls the vote which represents that fireside.

A Lawyer's Comment.

Grady Bell, of Bainbridge, is a rising young lawyer. He is red-headed, observant and thoughtful.
We were in his office, on the second floor, right across from the courthouse, with the fire department on one side and the Bon-Air hotel on the other;
burning the midnight current over cigars and politics.

"When you see the women turning their time and attention to a candidate it might be well to put your own eye on him for your own good," Grady Bell said to me. "There's something he advocates, something he means to the office he's hunting which the women folk have singled out in that strange sort of way they have of detecting such things long before we men have had time to figure them out.
The women have set me studying. I've been trying to figure out what interests them in Dorsey, and I've come to the conclusion it's one of these things:

Dorsey's Popular Plank.

"The good women of the country are strong for law and order. They want to bring up their children to be peaceful, law-abiding citizens in a lawful community, among law-abiding people.
Only a barbaric woman is not revolted
at thought of lynching, or mob clamor.
The mother has deep respect for the courts.

"The mothers and the wives and sisters grasp more quickly than the average man the protection the courts throw about them; they feel it more closely; and they are a great deal more appreciative of it. Therefore, I've concluded it is only natural that the mothers and wives and sweethearts should feel an immediate interest in a man
the first to come forward to command respect for the verdict of the juries.

"You never heard of a woman participating in a lynching. She is the first to seek to discourage such deeds.
She doesn't attempt to interfere with the courts. She is willing to let the processes of law take their course, for she seems to recognize their competency. Thus, when a man comes forward to aid the mothers in defending the institution they have always leaned upon, it is easy to understand one reason the women are flocking to Dorsey.

His Stand on Education.

"Then there is the question of Dorsey's stand for public education. The mothers who bear the children and bring them up understand the crying need of enlightenment. I don't care if she is the most ignorant woman in the land, no mother wants her children to be brought up unlettered.

"I have noticed this in connection with the part women are playing in Dorsey's campaign—they have no ax of their own sex to grind. I have heard no appeals for suffrage, no pleas for partiality.

"They want peace, lawfulness, orderliness. They want clean, adequate school houses and adequate facilities.
They want educated children. They are tired of Georgia, the wealthiest, greatest state in the south, bearing the shame of illiteracy. They think it is time the men were taking hold of the things the women have been seeing for a time that resembles ages."

Thus explains Grady Bell, of Bainbridge.

A Woman's Explanation.

"The women believe Dorsey is a man of principle, and that he will carry out the things he promises," suggested Mrs. Walter Thomas, wife of the hotel keeper of Colquitt, regent of the Blakeley chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and a member of the state executive committee of that organization. Mrs. Thomas is an active club worker, a philanthropist and a dominant spirit in the civic life of Colquitt. She is student, sociologist, housewife.

"Most women—especially those of the rural sections," she says, "have little, perhaps, about politics, but they know much of what the people need.
When a man comes along with the sincere purpose of supplying any of these needs, and the ability to do it, the women are as quick to recognize him as the men. The women of Georgia have had their eye on Dorsey for a long time. They believe in his efficiency and his courage. The women of south Georgia certainly are interested in Hugh Dorsey, and it isn't a passing interest or curiosity."

At Habers.

I wish you were personally acquainted with Mrs. R. A. Scruggs, who runs the Scruggs House, a frame, one-story hotel and the only stopping place in Habers, Ga., where the A. C. L.
limited stops only in an emergency.
For an hour before his Habers address Mr. Dorsey stopped for a rest and changed his linen. Mrs. Scruggs was delighted to see him, delighted to know him.

After eager and busy solicitations
for the candidate's welfare, Mrs.
Scruggs, the mother of six, four of them votes, paused in the doorway for a parting word.

"Well, Mr. Dorsey," she said, "I'm for you—and I got four sons I'll put out of house and home if they don't take my advice on the same subject."
Dorsey was gratified, but inquisitive.
"Well, in the first place," Mrs.
Scruggs replied, "all my women friends are for you. Then, because—because I think you mean what you say."

300 FLOYD FAMILIES SUFFER FROM FLOODS

Land Owners Can Care for Some, But Many Men Will Be Out of Work.

Rome, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—It is estimated that 300 families in Floyd county will be in need of assistance until another crop is produced or account of the recent high water in this section. The men in these families have been working on Floyd county farms, and at the present moment there is no work for them, nor have they the funds to tide them over the several months which may elapse before they find work here again. Many of the land owners are able and willing to care for some of their destitute help, but there are many who will be without assistance.

THOMASVILLE POLICE COURT GRIND LIGHT

Thomasville, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)
Only one case on the police court docket in the wonderful record in Thomasville for the week just past.
Usually the docket is pretty full of drunks, disorderly conduct and scraps,
and the record comes as a great surprise.

The two quart a month allowance doesn't seem to be much of a drunk-maker, and the former blind tigers are finding it rather hard to get in enough to run a very profitable business.

PASTE THIS IN YOUR HAT!

After unceasing and persistent efforts, covering a period of four or five years, during which attempt has been made to work the state up into a froth, Macon's capitol removal committee hearing has been held and the bill has been reported to the house by a bare scratch, but failing to get the two-thirds proportion that is required to get the measure through the house.

The committee action in itself is undoubtedly and inevitably significant of the overwhelming defeat of the capitol removal bill. Even if there were a chance for it in the house, a majority of the senators are against the measure.

These conditions confirm what The Constitution has said, THAT THERE IS NO POSSIBILITY OF THE PASSAGE OF ANY SUCH MEASURE—NOW OR HERE—AFTER!

Does anybody think that the legislature is going to take a chance on the trick Macon has cooked up in connection with this proposal? There are two bills covering the proposal. One is a constitutional amendment providing for the removal of the capitol to Macon. The other is a bill providing that the people of Macon shall vote upon a bond issue of from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 to meet the expense. The vote is to be taken upon these two measures in the same election on the same day.

Let us suppose the impossible and say that the people were to approve capitol removal on a vote.

What sort of a fix would the state be in then if Bibb county turned down the bond issue? They could very easily do it, and then say to the state, "We don't have to issue bonds! You have already ordered the capitol removed to Macon—now put this tax burden on the shoulders of the taxpayers."

Thus it will be seen Macon has not even attempted to give a guarantee. The proposition has been put upon anything but a businesslike basis. It is simply a bold effort to bluff the taxpayers into going into their pockets for $2,000,000 or more, and making them throw away a capitol building that is as good today as it was when it was built.

All this talk about leaving it to the people is child's play. THE PEOPLE HAVE ALREADY SETTLED THE QUESTION! They voted to establish the capitol in Atlanta, and they gave a million dollars to put up the present building. There is not a chance of their reversing the stand they have already taken upon it. They would vote it down overwhelmingly, for the whole state knows that Atlanta is nearer the center of the state's population than Macon, and that Atlanta is very near the actual center of the state's white population.

And yet, for purely advertising purposes, notwithstanding an adverse vote at the polls, Macon would, of course, come back with the same old cry, "Let's submit it again to the people." It pays to advertise!

Atlanta wants to see Macon build and grow and prosper. Atlanta stands ready as she has always been to help her in any laudable undertaking. But when it comes to staking the peace and harmony and good order of the state upon a campaign of town publicity, Atlanta thinks it time to call a halt.

Happily, this movement has been handed by its own rope! It is as effectively dead as the obsequies had been held and the funeral sermon preached. Let those who find so much to amuse them in The Constitution's emphatic declaration that this measure is doomed to absolute and certain defeat, paste this above their craniums and see, on the day of adjournment, whether or not The Constitution was right!

A STATE ACCOUNTING SYSTEM.

Dealing with the question of paying out state money, The Macon Telegraph takes editorially the same position as The Constitution in its recent statement that what Georgia needs is not so much an investigation of the state audit, as the installment of a thorough and efficient financial system which will prove an absolute check upon every dollar of state money paid out. Concerning this problem, The Telegraph says:

The state appropriates so much a year for various departments, which money is paid out by the state treasurer to the heads of the departments which are to spend it. This done, the operation is ended and the department head can expend it just about as he pleases. The potential evils of such a system are patent. Every dollar exacted from the treasury should be on some specific, properly issued warrant, so that there would be always on record just what every dollar went for.

This is exactly what the state audit teaches. It is not the evil of loss with which Georgia has to contend, for the state has not lost a single dollar, despite the bad system, but it is the potential evil.

This method of distributing departmental funds to each department, to be expended as it sees fit, is in existence in no other state in the union except Georgia. The system is a bad one and there is going to be somebody bobbing up with suggestion of investigation every year or two until it is changed.

What Georgia needs and should have, as The Constitution has stated, and as The Macon Telegraph also suggests, is a system under which all funds shall be paid out directly by the state treasurer upon duly certified vouchers, specifying exactly for what purpose they are drawn. Instead of distributing to each department head the amount of cash allotted to him by legislative appropriation, he should be notified as to the amount of the appropriation available for his department, and then the payments from such funds should be made upon his order, accompanied by the proper voucher submitting the details of the expenditure.

Installation of a system such as this is what Georgia needs, and it is all Georgia needs right now. The legislative committee can find out no more than the auditor's report has already shown, and there is nothing it could do if it did, except to follow the recommendations he has made and provide Georgia with a better financial system.

Georgia has lost nothing, and there is nothing to take any evidence about. What the special committee should do is to prepare the necessary measure to furnish the state with an efficient and exact financial system, and that would be the very best service it could render.

When this is done and the system is put into effect, we shall hear no more talk of legislative investigations into the financial conduct of any Georgia department or institution.

THE LIVE STOCK INDUSTRY.

The live stock industry is "looking up" all along the southern farming line; there is greater interest in it everywhere, as in its kindred industries, grain growing and packing plants.

There are more farm "experience" meetings now, at which results are shown for the encouragement of those who have not yet branched out to any extent on the live-at-home principle.

Attention has been called to the recent Moultrie, Ga., Live Stock Conference as having been the forerunner of these farm "experience" meetings, in its far-reaching influence for greater development of the cattle-raising business. Live stock as a money-maker for the farmer is being boosted in the right way, by results.

The south is going to make a better stock-raising record in the near future. The slogan is: "Raise stock of all kinds—cattle, horses, hogs. Raise stock!"

It is the voice of the Georgia press, and the press of other states. Take, for example, this, from The Hoke County (N. C.) Journal:

A big beef will sell for as much now as a good horse would a few years ago, and let us tell you once more, it will be a long time before the live stock market will be glutted in America or in the world. War is destructive of stock as well as men, and to buy a horse or mule after a little while will break a man up. Raise stock!

And The Wilmington (N. C.) Star talks on the same line, and notes "the systematic and businesslike step" towards the establishment of home packing houses. It says that a packing plant for Wilmington is now assured.

There will be no lack of packing plants if stock-raising is given a fair test. The farmer can have them at his own door.

And that means money at home and a market abroad.

We can't take Carranza's money, but there still is hope that we may be able to take his word.

The Turkish army is coming to where the only word it can send the kaiser is: "The running is fairly good."

Food and clothing for Mexico. That ought to impress the incendiary element; but it may be long before they're clothed in their right mind.

What's the matter with the progressive army band is that when the Colonel left they lost the bass drum.

Not only does Carranza ask a loan, but they say he thinks he should be paid for what he has done for American preparedness.

When school is over, (By Martha Hodgson, Age 10, in St. Nicholas Magazine.)
This poem, "When School is Over," by Martha Hodgson, the little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred G. Hodgson, of Atlanta, won the silver badge for poetical merit in the July St. Nicholas.

When school is over, I'm so glad!
'Cause then I go to my dear dad.
He takes me through the woods so grand;
There we go walking hand in hand.
Little wrens and chickadees
Call at us from all the trees.
Tanager with a red breast
Humming-bird with ruby throat;
Squirrels, beavers, mice and mink—
Every beastie you could think.
Snakes and frogs, tadpoles, too,
From the waters peep at you.
Violets, bloodroots, pink sea-foam
We see as through the woods we roam.
Daisies, roses, milkweed white,
All the flowers come in sight.

"Farewell."
This poem of "Farewell," by Sir Henry Newbolt, in The London Times, is one of the best war utterances, informed with the high spirit of perfect love and loyalty:

Mother, with unbowed head,
Hear them across the sea;
The new world of the dead,
The dead who died for thee.
Greet them again with tender words
and brave,
For, saving thee, themselves they could not save.

To keep the home unharmed
Their fathers built so fair,
Better than brute despair,
They found the secret of the word that saith,
"Service is sweet, for all true life is death."

So greet thou well thy dead
Across the homeless sea,
And be thou comforted
Because they died for thee.
Far off they served, but now their deed is done,
For evermore their life and thine are one.

Thinks Creation of Office Of Public Defender Would Be Useless Expense to County

Editor Constitution: There is a bill pending in our legislature called the public defender bill, the intention of it being to authorize the county judges to appoint an attorney to defend those who are charged with crimes and are unable to pay attorney's fees; these attorneys to be paid a salary by the county in which they serve.

Fulton county does not need any such officer. It is true we have a few defendants now and then who are in jail without counsel and are unable to hire one, but in all such cases the judge presiding can find those defendants have good and sufficient counsel to defend them with no expense to the county whatever. Of course, lawyers who are so appointed do this work gratis for the court, unless in some cases where the defendant or his people come in later and pay a fee, and this happens sometimes. If a public defender were appointed, he would become known to a class of criminals who would not, if they could, hire counsel, but depend entirely on a public defender.

No "Railroading."
I have often heard Judge Hill ask a defendant in this condition who he wanted for his lawyer and if he suggested one the judge appoints him. In other words, there is no railroading people through the courts into the chains in this county without proper representation.

Such men as Judge Hill and Judge Calhoun, who are the criminal judges, and the solicitors of these courts would not allow any one to matter how humble or destitute they may be, to go to the chains, unless they had a fair trial and the judges and solicitors were satisfied themselves that they were guilty. I have never heard of any lawyer complain at being appointed to defend such men in such circumstances, and as stated, there are very few of them.

Judge Hill runs his court with twenty-five jurors and the cost of the officers to just barely enough to wait on the court, in order to save the county as much expense as possible, something that was never done before in this county. The other judges are doing all they can to save the county expense.

Probation Officers.
We have now two good probation officers, paid by the county, to look after any case where a man may want them to, making a thorough investigation of the parties and their case and make full reports to the judges.

When a lawyer is appointed to defend a client they have the entire body of court officers to assist them in their duties, etc. A public defender would create an office in this county at an expense of from $2,000 to $5,000 a year, and would do nothing of the law, no doubt, is good and would be a good thing if it was needed, yet in this county, where county courts are held every department in the county trying to keep down expenses, it does seem to me that to create such an office would be a waste of money to the taxpayers of this county further by asking the legislature to pass this useless law and create such an office.

Will look into this matter before acting favorably on it.

Declares Southern Farmers Should Raise More Hogs

Editor Constitution: It is time the southern farmer realized that the hog would be getting scattered over our country and that food stuff is all advancing in price. We are reaching a crisis in our present farming system.

A few years ago I visited a stock farm near Lexington, Ky., and I asked the owner what farm land was worth there; he replied, $300 per acre. This was a great surprise to me, and I said: "Why are your lands worth $300 per acre, while ours in Georgia are worth not more than $50 to $100 per acre?" His reply was: "You all haven't got your hogs open yet, but the time will come when your land will be worth more than ours, because you have longer seasons and can raise everything, while we can raise only grain and stock."

Just think of one man selling $20,000 from a 500-acre farm, with an expense of only $5,000, making a net profit of $15,000! While they are making large profits, think of the condition of our farmers. From the best information I can get, 85 per cent of the farmers in this section are losing money. 12 per cent holding their own, and 2 per cent making a little money. If I am in error in this estimate, I would be glad for anyone to correct me. If our farmers would raise their corn, hay, wheat, cattle and hogs, and then raise all the cotton they could, we could do better than any country on earth, and it would be done very easily.

One farmer living about four miles from this town has been raising cotton for four years. This week he hauled it in and sold it. He saw a long string of wagons loaded with bales of cotton at this season of the year looked mighty fine. I have known him to raise thirty years and never knew him to buy one bushel of corn, sack of flour, or a pound of meat. He started on rented land, now owns several farms, and always has money to lend his neighbors. He does not have to sell his cotton to get ready money.

What this man has done can be done by any man who tries. I have a plan by which a man can make money on hogs and will be glad to advise any farmer who wishes. I believe it will go much more than in the next six months.

Marshals and Police Chiefs Should Join Organization

Editor Constitution: It is essential that chiefs of police and town marshals of Georgia immediately forward their names to Secretary R. Griffith, West Point, Ga., and be enrolled as a member before the convention meets in Cordele. The organization stands for everything that tends to elevate and build up the police officer and to increase his efficiency and worth to the community that he serves.

This organization purposes to be of benefit to the chiefs of police, and at the same time the general public reaps the greater rewards from his increased ability to render better and more satisfactory service. It brings the chiefs and marshals of the state in closer contact and acquaintance with each other, thereby eliminates a more uniform system to their very important work and service. It is a fact that at this time the various police departments of our state know less of each other than any other class of men, and a better understanding can only be gained by uniting and becoming members of the Georgia State Association of Police Chiefs and Marshals.

The membership at present numbers about one hundred officers, but that number only represents about one-fourth of the heads of police departments in Georgia.

Let me urge you to join at once, so that the organization can be of service to you and you be of benefit to the organization.

Do the Stars Shape Human Destiny or Thought?

Editor Constitution: The old mythology made the planet Mars the god of war. The old students knew little of the science of the sky, or the nature of the stars, or their movements. When the red planet Mars turned its angry face toward the earth of a morning it betokened the wrath of the gods. It found expression only in war and conflict. The stars in the heavens were created only to tell us little mortals on this little globe the wisdom of the gods. And with the ignorant today the stars are read only to determine individual destinies. To show how tradition or ignorance are wrong have now in progress the greatest war ever fought on this planet. We look in the sky to see Mars and find him hidden by millions of stars, but find him hidden by millions of stars in the vapid depth of the sky, and invisible to the eyes of mankind on this little planet. In his expected place is Venus, the goddess of love and tenderness. She is the bright morning star that glides the morning sky with her light. But she never directs conflicting armies.

Amazed at Attitude Of Some Members On Tax Equalization

Editor Constitution: Because you advocated the tax equalization bill, I will write to you my commendation of this measure. It is astounding to me that senators and representatives from those counties where state institutions are located, and which are now asking several hundred thousand dollars in appropriations, should be fighting the tax equalization law, which is not only just but is the only source from which appropriations can be raised.

The purpose of this law is to equalize taxes in every county of the state and it is unthinkable that any man should maintain that equality is not justice.

This fact is emphasized because the present legislature is increasing the appropriations to the common schools, increasing pensions, and increasing appropriations to the state institutions, and by such appropriations they have created a deficit, according to Comptroller General Wright, of over $200,000, after raising the tax rate from 4 1/2 to 5 mills.

What legislator can justify himself with the thinking portion of his constituency for any such course of conduct? If the legislature wishes to be fair, let it cut off every appropriation and let it be understood that every man can give in his property as he pleases, and when this plan is adopted the state will not raise $1,000,000 a year revenue. I have been inclined to favor compulsory education, but if the representatives of Clarke county, the center of culture of the state, can advocate such legislation as the foregoing and their statesmanship is to be measured by such considerations as seem to move them, then I do not know whether higher education is of advantage. It would be far better for the state to have a law that should be taught to read and write and to learn the simple precepts of Holy Writ.

Says Call a Halt on New County Madness

Editor Constitution: I desire to commend the editorial in The Constitution of Sunday, July 16, under the caption, "New County Madness."

With California having an area nearly three times that of Georgia, a population nearly equal to Georgia's and having only 22 counties, and New York having an area just 7,000 square miles less than that of Georgia and a population about four times greater than Georgia's, and governing the state splendidly with 62 subdivisions, or counties, there is something wrong in the way Georgia is governed—152 counties in the state, and every year calling for more!

If New York and California can get along with one-third the number of counties that Georgia has, is it not time to begin consolidation of counties instead of creating new ones?

There is already a well-organized movement for better highways, and, with the improved modes of travel, distances that formerly required a day to traverse now require only an hour or two.

The people of most any community in the state will tax themselves to build a new courthouse and pay salaries to a new set of county officers, then neglect with pride to the splendid edifice and boast of the brain of Colonel So-and-So, while there is not a decent schoolhouse nor a competent teacher in the county.

Why not combine the counties, dividing the 152 by 4, leaving 38 county courthouses with their officers to administer the affairs of the people; eliminate the officers of the 100 thus combined and use their salaries to pay teachers and care of the courthouses into schoolhouses, thereby improving the school systems?

When a new county is created the argument, therefore, is usually a question of the county is too far from a section of the existing county; or that a river divides the county and the people on either side are inconvenienced because no bridge spans the stream—all excellent arguments, but they are all beside the point and enhancing the value of the property of a few citizens of the community. But they never think of the people who are required to erect the courthouses would build permanent bridges across the streams, solve the problem and save the perpetual cost of officers.

Simple Measures Which Would Lessen Danger From Floods

Editor Constitution: A letter from a friend in Gordon county lies before me. He says: "A great many of the farmers in this county will lose all of their corn, and some of them their cotton and corn. It is the worst freshet ever known at this season of the year. I do not know what is to become of the farmers that are farming the river lands. The papers are full of similar reports from other parts of this state and Alabama."

Can anything be done to prevent these floods and their attendant losses? While seasons of downpour are beyond our control, we can do something towards controlling the water after it has fallen.

1. All hill lands that are cultivated ought to be terraced. Terrace checks the passage of water down the slope, and gives it time to soak into the soil.
2. Steep slopes should, as far as practicable, not be cleared. It is not always practicable to keep them in timber, but more level lands are available for cultivation, the slopes should be reserved for timber crops.
3. Forest fires ought to be prevented. They burn up the litter and humus which tends to retard the flow of water and to protect the surface from washing.
At present the public mind is focused on the distress caused by the recent floods. Let me urge you to bring to the attention of the public these three simple measures which, if heeded, would tend to prevent more disastrous floods in the future.

Bold Example of County Ruin Told in the Experience of Montgomery

Editor Constitution: Your splendid editorial under the caption of "New County Madness," Sunday's issue, should prove a revelation to every citizen of Georgia. It should arouse the righteous indignation of every honest taxpayer in the state, portraying as it does a condition not obtaining in another state in the union. Resulting from the new county craze, which has infected Georgia for eleven years, this grand old state is being backward steps which only the sober-minded element of the general assembly (and thanks to their virtues, they seem to be in the majority) can alter; the common people are to a great measure helpless and unaided.

Unending civil division, with resultant high tax rate, Georgia has for years been the subject of ridicule on the part of her sister states, where such conditions are not tolerated, and where progress and governmental efficiency have formed the watchword. Union conserving strength in a principle as old as time.

Along with over a thousand citizens of an already ruined county—Montgomery, or what there remains of it, the state owes a duty to her and kindly interest in Georgia's welfare; yet it is no new effort on the part of our great medium toward the preservation of state dignity. No well posted Georgian can overlook the fact that Montgomery county, eleven years ago one of the strongest in the state among the country counties, has been so reduced in area and tax values by continued division that it is impoverished, and now laboring under an exceedingly high tax rate, again the subject of the merciless onslaught, with half of her present small area demanded for the creation of a new county. This granted, and no hope for recovery.

The Onslaught on Montgomery.
In 1905 Montgomery county had 753 square miles, and one of the first victims led to the slaughter, gave to the county of Toombs county 80 square miles; two years later she again gave to Toombs 15 square miles. Before the creation of Montgomery county, in 1912, the entire county of Wheeler, Montgomery, having an area of 235 square miles, was divided into three counties according to the new Hodge survey, 37.5 square miles. The proposed "Treutlen" measure would take practically half of the remainder, or 188 square miles, leaving only the proverbial militia district. Tax values for the year 1915 were $2,750,000. The figures, also taken from the records, this county is now carrying a debt of $38,000, with but 177 square miles remaining.

With but 177 square miles remaining, the citizens and officials estimate that the county cannot exist if again divided in half. But that may remain for the few taxpayers to settle among themselves.

Montgomery county has some of the best public roads in the state, but this progress will have to be put on hold. The most efficient public school systems of the state, but this will be seriously hampered; her public buildings, in the modern type, calculated to serve five times the population, but they cannot be kept in respectable repair by a mere handful of taxpayers; very little of the county is under cultivation; grant effort to further divide Montgomery county for the benefit of a few interested business men.

An Example of County Ruination.
Surely your business men appreciate the patronage of our citizens, but for many years our people have been paying taxes to the county and Atlanta hotels, seeking the opportunity of appealing to the assemblymen for the preservation of the county. The county does not ask this, and the railroad does not make it necessary. They are there today, and have been there for many years, and protection against individual interests,

WALKER OPPOSES COPPER CONTRACT

Attorney General Urges Committee Not to Recommend Contract With a Limit, But to Let Governor Abrogate It.

Attorney General Clifford Walker, appearing last night before the joint legislative committee having under consideration the Tennessee Copper company sulphur fumes situation, urged that the committee recommend that the five-year term contract proposed by the copper company when the present contract expires next October be not accepted. The committee announced no decision last night.

For the purpose of controlling the copper fumes situation in the northern border counties of Georgia and making provisions for an indemnity fund for damages to Georgia crops from the sulphur fumes, Attorney General Walker declared that he favored a contract without a time limit, but which could be abrogated by either party upon six months' notice. He favored giving the governor the power to abrogate such a contract, as is given the executive in the case of the present contract, and urged the committee to take no action looking to tying the governor's hands in any way.

Leave It to Attorney General.

Madison Bell, representing the Farmers' union of Paulding and Gilmer counties, was heard by the committee. He stated that the people of that section did not want the renewal of the present contract, and urged that the matter be left in the hands of the attorney general.

He was followed by Colonel Tom Brown, of Paulding county, who stated that he also represented some of the farmers of that section, and likewise urged that the matter be left in the hands of the attorney general for adjustment.

John J. Little, attorney with Judge Arthur Powell for the company, was heard by the committee in the closing arguments. He urged the renewal of the contract with certain amendments. "I do not attempt to state for what length of time this contract should be renewed. It is left with this committee to decide. If they choose to make the term one or two or three years, well and good. I have no objections to offer. But I feel that it should be renewed for a term of five years to prevent a recurrence of just such another hearing in the near future."

Proposed New Contract.

The proposed new contract would be operative for a period of five years from October 1, 1916. At that time the present contract will cease. The company proposes to make a renewal so that they shall be allowed to put up an indemnity fund of $40,000 instead of the present $16,500 yearly for damages to Georgia crops from the fumes of the plant.

It is also proposed that the board of arbitration be appointed, one by the company, one by the governor from another section of the state than that affected and one by the governor from the affected district. Each shall hold office for the term of the contract.

HOUSE VOTES $50,000 FOR VALDOSTA SCHOOL

South Georgia Normal Voted Money for New Buildings. Action on Other Bills.

By a vote of 121 to 37 the lower house of the general assembly yesterday passed its first appropriation measure for the session—the bill of Griffin, of Lowndes, by substitute, giving the board of trustees of the state university $50,000 for an additional dormitory and an administration building for the South Georgia State Normal college at Valdosta.

The Knight of Berrien bill, to create a new county from the western portion of Berrien, to be known as Cook, was defeated. Following its defeat Mr. Knight served notice that, "at the proper time," he will move to reconsider. The measure was lost on roll call by 11 votes of the constitutional two-thirds, receiving 115 favorable votes and 52 adverse, when 126 are required to carry.

Filibuster Falls.

What promised for a time to develop into a pronounced filibuster occurred soon after the house convened, when Dorris of Crisp moved to table the bill of Fulbright of Burke providing for the exemption of college endowments from taxation. The filibuster failed, however, and the motion to table carried.

This, it was subsequently pointed out by the author of the bill, was done in the interest of the purpose of the bill. A similar act already has passed the senate, and will be reached in due time in the house—earlier, in all probability, than the Fulbright bill could be voted upon—and thus the legislation stands a better chance for enactment at this session through the medium of the senate bill.

The game and fish bill, which has for its purpose practically an entire revision of the existing game and fish laws, was called for third reading when Wohlwend, of Muscogee, asked unanimous consent that it be set for next Tuesday as a special and continuing order, and that during the meanwhile 300 copies of it be printed for the use and information of the house members. Objection was raised, and the clerk had progressed at some length in its reading when a motion to table the bill was carried.

The Cook county bill was debated at length by its author, Representative Knight, Dorris of Crisp, Bell of Floyd and Griffin of Lowndes in behalf of it, and Stark of Jackson against the bill.

Thanks City of Athens. A joint senate resolution was concurred in thanking the city of Athens for its recent entertainment of the assembly on its trip of inspection of the state institutions there.

Another senate resolution, in which the house was asked to and did concur in, provided that the tax commissioners of the various counties of Georgia submit to the assembly each a statement of the amount of the county of the administration of tax equalization law, and of its effect in their respective counties. The resolution was asked to appoint four of its members to serve on a joint committee, with three senate members, to compile statistics and data relative to the workings of the law in question to date, and to make recommendations thereon to guide the assembly in the further consideration of the repeal bill.

Speaker Burwell appointed upon this committee Representatives Jones of Coweta and Swift of Muscogee—both opposed to the repeal bill—and Hale of Floyd and Edwards of Walton, who are known to be for the repeal. The senate members are Senators Lawrence of the first, Walker of the twentieth and Stovall of the thirtieth.

AUGUSTA PLANS LARGE PACKING HOUSE PLANT

Stock Will Be Largely Scattered in Augusta Territory.

Augusta, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—The Georgia-Carolina Packing company has been incorporated in the superior court of Richmond county. The stockholders will meet this week for organization. While the authorized capital is $100,000, the right to employ a capital of $1,000,000 is given. The plan is for a $250,000 or $300,000 plant.

Some of the subscriptions will be begun promptly after organization. The keenest interest has been manifested in the movement and there is that encouragement which indicates that whatever capital is suggested will be readily secured. It is stated, after a preliminary canvass that almost every farmer in the surrounding counties in both Georgia and Carolina will become stockholders.

The idea is to secure as large a number of stockholders as possible—that is, to interest as many different people in the project as can be interested. Farmers anticipating the coming of the packing outfit are beginning the introduction on their farms of the best strains of cattle and swine. There is every reason to believe that the industry is assured.

CHICAGO STAPLES
AND MIXED TRENDS

Skepticism Regarding Black Rust Reports Sags Wheat. Crop Damage Boosts Corn. Provisions Average Higher

Chicago, July 18.—Denials that black rust had spread into Canada tended today to make wheat traders somewhat skeptical regarding damage reports. Accordingly, the market pointed upward much of the time, closed unsettled at 1/4 to 1/2 decline, with July 1916 and September 1916, and provisions finished irregular ranging from 1/2 decline to a rise of 1/2. For the most part transactions in wheat were of a scalping character, and were not governed by any well-defined sentiment as to the unfavorable conditions that yield and quality of the spring crop had been seriously impaired by black rust led to continued uneasiness, and there were reports from some authorities that the rust spores had already attacked the roots of the plant. Unqualified contradictions, however, of yesterday's advice that the pest had spread northward over the Canadian border did a good deal to bring about rather aggressive selling at times on the hard spots in the market. The relative weakness of quotations in the northwest served also to handicap the bulls here.

Would-be purchasers of wheat gave considerable attention to Liverpool dispatches, saying that the unfavorable weather in all producing countries was causing British buyers to become nervous. In this connection it was pointed out that in 1904 black rust resulted in a crop shrinkage of 50,000,000 bushels during July and August, and that meanwhile the Chicago market advanced 26 cents a bushel. Export sales today were estimated at 600,000 bushels including 200,000 new hard winter wheat to be shipped by way of the Gulf of Mexico.

Corn, unlike wheat, maintained a firm tone. Serious complaints of heat and drought were received, especially from Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. Only one of the government stations in Oklahoma shows any rain since July 1.

Speculative selling weakened oats. Hot weather damage reports had merely a transient bullish effect. Provisions averaged higher with hopes. Late sales, however, of 1,000,000 pounds of lard by a leading trader seemed to operate at least temporarily as a check on buyers.

CARBON REMOVER

HOW TO REMOVE CARBON
from your car. There are three methods of removing carbon from gasoline
engines.

First--The old method of di-amantizing or "tearing down" the
motor, which is very unsatisfactory for the reason that this operation requires from one to three days and costs from $10 to $30,
and no ordinary mechanic can
give the motor the fine adjustments it has when it leaves the factory.

Second--Carbon can be removed by burning it out of the motor
with Oxygen gas. This requires
from one to three hours, costs
from $5 to $10, and is very dangerous to the motor for the intense heat created by the burning of
the oxygen and the fine adjustments in the spark plugs, valves
and valve stems.

Third--The cheapest, safest and
most satisfactory method of removing carbon is by the use of
OROIRO GUARANTEED CARBON
REMOVER. This requires but
thirty minutes and costs but 83
cents, and it cannot possibly injure any part of the motor.

Beware of imitations or substitutes.

CARBON REMOVER

HOW TO REMOVE CARBON
from your car. There are three methods of
removing carbon from gasoline
engines.

First--The old method of di-amantizing or "tearing down" the
motor, which is very unsatisfactory for the reason that this operation requires from one to three days and costs from $10 to $30,
and no ordinary mechanic can
give the motor the fine adjustments it has when it leaves the
factory.

Second--Carbon can be removed by burning it out of the motor
with Oxygen gas. This requires
from one to three hours, costs
from $5 to $10, and is very dangerous to the motor for the intense
heat created by the burning of
the oxygen and the fine adjustments in the spark plugs, valves
and valve stems.

Third--The cheapest, safest and
most satisfactory method of removing carbon is by the use of
OROIRO GUARANTEED CARBON
REMOVER. This requires but
thirty minutes and costs but 83
cents, and it cannot possibly injure any part of the motor.

Beware of imitations or substitu-
tes.

THE DAY'S CRIST FROM THE STATE POLITICAL MILL

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR

DISCUSS DR. HARDMAN'S CLAIMS AND HIS RECORD

The Lawrenceville News-Herald, published in Dr. Hardman's congressional district, has opened a hornet's nest against Dr. Hardman's candidacy for governor, and all three of the other candidates for the governorship are giving due publicity to what The News-Herald calls its "exposure."

In his speech at Bainbridge on Monday Hugh Dorsey read The News-Herald editorial in referring to Dr. Hardman's record, just as Joe Pottle did two days before, and just as the friends of Governor Harris are doing.

The Constitution has asked Dr. Hardman for a reply to the statement of The News-Herald and will publish what he has to say on the subject as soon as he answers.

The News-Herald goes so far as to state that the doctor is "running on a fake platform," and that he verily has been dealing fairly with the people by misrepresenting his true record as a legislator. In substantiation of its statements The News-Herald cites the journals of the house and the senate to show that Dr. Hardman in reality is not the author nor responsible for several measures to which he made strong claim in his gubernatorial campaign.

When being the establishment of the tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto, Ga., the vital statistics act and laws regulating child labor in Georgia.

The News-Herald's editorial handles the doctor with gloves off, and, of course, it was a safe bet that Dr. Hardman's gubernatorial candidates would hardly overlook the opportunity to use the information published by The News-Herald, which is exactly what is happening.

Hugh Dorsey is quoting the editorial in his speeches about the state; Joe Pottle is making reference to it, and it is also being used as campaign material by Governor Harris' campaign headquarters.

Denies Hardman's Claims.

This editorial first takes Dr. Hardman to task for his claim that he "gave to the state its law which provides for free treatment of tuberculosis, and a sanitarium for that purpose at Alto, Ga.," this statement being quoted from Dr. Hardman's editorial appearing in The Atlanta Georgian of May 26.

The News-Herald points out that in the year 1908, while Dr. Hardman was a member of the state senate, the journal of the house shows (pages 109, 116-8) that the bill which established the Alto sanitarium was introduced in the house by Dr. T. R. Whitley, of Douglas, passed by the house and subsequently passed by the senate. The record in the senate shows, however, says the Lawrenceville paper, that Dr. Hardman voted in favor of the bill when it reached the senate.

"This evidence," says The News-Herald, "conclusively shows that Dr. Hardman not only was not the author of the bill to establish the tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto, as he claims to be, but that it was a house bill, whereas he was a member of the senate."

From Dr. Hardman's advertisement appearing in The Constitution of last May 28, The News-Herald quotes: "Dr. Hardman has passed such legislation as has established the establishment of the health department of the state."

The News-Herald has recourse to the house journal of 1903, wherein it is shown that the bill to establish the state board of health was also introduced by Dr. Whitley.

"These facts," continues The News-Herald, "show that Dr. Hardman has been and is now making an effort to appropriate these two important measures as his own, whereas what he did was simply to vote just as nine-tenths of the members of the general assembly did. Yet, to use his own language, he himself passed both bills and was not even the author of either."

The News-Herald next quotes again from the advertisement, in which Dr. Hardman claims that "he introduced a vital statistics bill, which with a law, but without adequate funds to enforce, he will insist upon its enforcement."

Continues The News-Herald: "The only law now in force on this subject was introduced in the senate by Senator Elkins, of the 15th district, and passed."

Upon Dr. Hardman's record as a member of the legislature at that time, The News-Herald again refers to the records of the legislature to support its allegations.

In his page display advertisements in the daily newspapers, Dr. Hardman stresses his child labor in factories and unwholesome food, which with a law, which has been accomplished in that matter.

When the question of child labor was broached, among the members of the house, a great division of opinion was shown, and the bill, which was introduced by Dr. Hardman, was not passed.

In confirmation of this statement, we refer to house journal of 1905, page 543, in which it is recorded that on the evening, August 2, the child labor bill was passed, and the third time it put on its passage.

To show clearly what did occur at that time, we give the following verbatim extract from it, to wit:

"A bill to regulate the employment of children in factories in this state, and for other purposes."

Mr. Felder, of Bibb, moved that the house adjourn until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and that the house then continue the consideration of the child labor bill, which motion prevailed.

Mr. Alexander, of DeKalb, moved that the bill be reconsidered, which motion prevailed.

Leave of absence was granted Mr. Hardman, from Jackson.

Mr. Aldinger, then moved that the house adjourn until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and that the house then continue the consideration of the child labor bill, which motion prevailed.

Dr. Hardman evidently thought, when he obtained a leave of absence on August 2, that the bill would come to a vote on that day, and that the record would show "record" on the measure, but he made a miscalculation, as the vote was not taken until August 3.

On page 544 of the house journal it is recorded that Dr. Hardman was present on August 3.

On pages 546-7-8 of the journal covering that date it is recorded that the bill was voted upon, showing a vote of 102 yeas and 62 nays.

"Dr. Hardman Didn't Vote."

The journal further shows that Dr. Hardman and nine others who were present did not vote.

If Dr. Hardman didn't vote on that bill, why did he remain in his seat without voting? This bill did not reach its passage in the senate in 1905, and Mr. Bell introduced another bill in 1906, which was passed both houses, by substitute, at that session.

Dr. Hardman had had a whole year in which to come to a conclusion as to which was the better course, and he was aided by the popular sentiment that had grown up in favor of such legislation during the interim between the two sessions, and made the plunge by voting for it.

The editorial concludes: "This is the first instance that has ever occurred in the history of campaigns in this state where a candidate for a state office has had the nerve to claim credit for all the important legislation that was done during a session in the house and senate running through many years."

Dr. Hardman is not dealing fairly with the people by misrepresenting his true record as a legislator, and attempting to appropriate what other men have done as his own work.

It is a scheme which ought to be exposed, and we have only partially performed the task.

FULTON DORSEY CLUB ORGANIZES THURSDAY

With the end in view of cementing the sentiment in Fulton county in behalf of the candidacy of Hugh Dorsey for governor, the Fulton Dorsey Club, Dorsey's friends throughout the county have called a meeting to be held in the dining hall of the Kimball house at 8 o'clock next Thursday evening for the purpose of organizing the Fulton County Dorsey club.

Friends of Mr. Dorsey, representative of all sections of the county, are invited to be present and participate in the organization of the club.

Further evidence of the thoroughness with which his friends are organizing in behalf of his candidacy for governor continues to arrive at headquarters, according to Frank Harwell, of LaGrange, Mr. Dorsey's campaign manager.

Judge Harwell stated Monday that the thorough organization of every district in every county of the state has been undertaken in Mr. Dorsey's behalf, and that the results are becoming surprisingly evident. Judge Harwell referred to a club list received in the course of the afternoon from Dr. C. W. Findley, a physician of Broxton, Ga., containing the name of practically every voter in the 112th militia district in that county. These signatures were attested under oath by Dr. Findley before R. L. Durden, notary public.

JOE POTTLE ANNOUNCES MORE SPEAKING DATES

The following speaking dates for Joseph E. Pottle were announced at his headquarters in the Kimball house yesterday:

POTTLE WARMLY RECEIVED BY LEE COUNTY FOLK

Leeburg, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—At noon yesterday city court adjourned that those in attendance might hear Hon. Joseph E. Pottle, candidate for governor, speak.

In a pleasing address Colonel Pottle was introduced by one of Leeburg's leading citizens, Dr. J. H. Souder, who Colonel Pottle spoke one hour and a half, the applause was frequent and general, as the large crowd of voters seemed to express themselves as being with the speaker as he made his pleas.

He was strong against a four-year term for governor, and he was also opposed to the sale of the Western and Atlantic railroad. He repeated Dorsey's attitude in regard to the state road, said his connections with it was a matter of record.

He took up different phases of the campaign and his views seemed to meet the approval of the crowd. He was strong on enforcing the prohibition law, and his colorful and a splendid impression here and made many friends in Lee county.

DR. HARDMAN'S CAMPAIGN STATEMENT IN JEFFERSON COUNTY

Louisville, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—Dr. L. O. Hughes, Jefferson county candidate for governor, was here Monday campaigning by meeting the voters face to face and shaking hands. He drove into the country over Jefferson's fine roads, and see the farmers.

He came to town yesterday from Wadley, spending Saturday afternoon there, after finishing a day of speaking in Taylor county on Friday. Dr. Hardman has a number of admirers here and has good prospects in Jefferson county.

MELDRIM TO ADDRESS JENKINS VOTERS TOMORROW

Millen, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—On Wednesday, July 19, General Melgrim, candidate for governor, will address the voters of Jenkins county, and will also speak at the meeting of the voters of Jenkins county, and will also speak at the meeting of the voters of Jenkins county.

General Melgrim has a host of warm friends in this section, and the speeches have been well advertised and a record breaking number of people are expected to hear the addresses.

WILKES ANNOUNCES FOR RE-ELECTION AS SOLICITOR

Moultrie, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—John C. Wilkes, Moultrie, today formally announced his candidacy for re-election as solicitor.

re-election as solicitor general of the southern circuit. He is being opposed by F. B. Atchison, mayor of Thomasville, and a prominent member of the bar of that city.

Just weeks ago, he has been solicitor of this circuit for several years, and is declaring his candidacy on his record, he declares.

GUBERNATORIAL OUTLOOK

Thomasville, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—It is understood that Thomasville is about to have a Jersey club, steps to that end having already been taken by the supporters of Mr. Dorsey in the gubernatorial campaign. A list was opened at one of the drug stores a day or two ago, and there are said to be already a large list of signers to it.

So far Judge Pottle is the only one of the candidates who has spoken in Thomasville, though Governor Harris and Dr. Hardman have both spoken at other towns in the county. All indications point to a very close contest, with nobody putting up any one candidate against the field.

JUDGE LARSEN ADDRESSES DODGE COUNTY VOTERS

Eastman, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—Judge W. W. Larsen, of Dublin, came to Dodge county for congress from this (the twelfth) congressional district, spoke to a large and appreciative audience of Dodge county voters Monday, in session this week, was adjourned by Judge Larsen.

Judge Larsen was introduced by Judge C. W. Griffin and made a good impression on the voters of the county, and Larsen has many friends who are actively at work in his behalf in the county.

HON. G. D. PERRY ENTERS MORGAN COUNTY LEGISLATIVE RACE

Madison, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—Hon. G. D. Perry is out for the legislature in Morgan county against John T. Morgan, who announced some time ago.

Mr. Perry represented this, the twenty-eighth senatorial district, for years ago. His work in the senate is generally known. He is one of the best and most prosperous farmers in this section and will make a good representative if he is elected.

He is an uncle of Morgan's present member of the legislature, Hon. T. Harris Burruss.

The race promises to be a lively one, as both men are prominent.

157 WAR VESSELS IN THREE YEARS

Washington, July 18.—The enlarged naval building program recommended by the naval committee after a conference with President Wilson and Secretary Daniels was approved by the senate today by a voice vote.

Democratic and republican leaders worked together to secure its passage, and, although a small group of senators from both sides of the chamber opposed it during debate, sentiment in its favor was so overwhelming that no roll call was demanded.

With the important building section out of the way, administration leaders believe the naval bill can be pressed to a final vote tomorrow and sent to conference, where a stubborn fight is expected. The program approved today provides for construction of four battle cruisers and four dreadnaughts in 1917 and a total of 157 war vessels of all classes within the next three years.

As it passed the house, the bill authorized only five capital ships, all battle cruisers, for next year, and a continuing policy.

Only two amendments likely to develop were announced, and the bill was disposed of before the senate reaches a final vote. They are Senator Oliver's proposal, directing that the federal trade commission investigate the armor plate situation before the government begins construction of armor plate, and the La Follette amendment to prohibit the use of any United States warship in Mexican or South American waters to aid in the collection of money due a private citizen.

By a vote of 48 to 18 the senate today rejected an amendment designed to provide that three of the ten new battleships to be constructed in the next three years should be kept in Pacific coast waters. An effort by Senator Penrose to have a conference in submitted by the Bethlehem Steel company and in connection with the armor plate plant right printed as a public document also failed.

NEGRO FANATIC KILLS 4 PERSONS, WOUNDS 3

Chicago, July 18.—Henry J. McIntyre, a crazed negro, believing himself a prophet who must die to carry a "message to the Almighty," became violent here today, and the result of his frenzy was a carnage list of six dead and three injured.

The negro and his wife were killed, but only after more than a hundred policemen had besieged his residence for more than three hours and had been forced to resort to dynamite and fire to end the battle.

Recorded as Queer for Years, McIntyre, a heavy-built negro and very black, had been regarded as queer for years. Some time during the heat of the July night his mania became acute. He wrote two letters, one on a sheet of wrapping paper and the other on a piece of window shade. They were ill-spelled and rambling, but they made plain that the negro considered himself a prophet and that he had to die in order to take his report to the Almighty.

These written, the husband and wife armed themselves. The woman fired on negroes in an adjoining back yard. This was the beginning, McIntyre, armed with an automatic pistol, appeared on the scene. He fired at the crowd, and Mrs. Josephine Overmyer came on the scene looking for her husband, who had been attracted to the scene. McIntyre took careful aim and she fell dead. The crazed negro then went to the front of the house and fired at Knox and his wife and Alfred Matthews, all negroes, had appeared on their respective sides. The negro, suffering aim killed the two men and gave the woman a serious wound.

Policemen Shot Dead. Policeman Stuart Dean and others responded to an alarm and burst into the house. McIntyre, crouching behind a trunk, killed Dean with his first shot and wounded Policemen Clement and Crabtree. Their companions dragged them out and reinforcements with rifles were sent for.

The latter fired hundreds of shots through front and rear windows and these were returned.

Fearing to risk the lives of his men, Captain Westbrook ordered the house dynamited and three charges were exploded under it. After this heated fight, Policeman Hughes, finally decided to investigate, and entered. He found the woman dead, McIntyre, already wounded, was gasping and leaning against an ice box. He sent no other word, and the Lord's remnant of the Odoric seed.

The Lord has made me the savior of all Africans of America, and now I shall recommend all that are worthy unto my Heavenly Father, the great God of the Christians. The Lord has given me a spirit to judge the quick and the dead.

I must die in this land that I may carry my reports to Almighty God concerning the land of the United States.

Says God Made Him Prophet. The note left by McIntyre follows: The Almighty God has made me a prophet until all nations, and also my wife, Hattie McIntyre, ran the note. You shall know that the Lord has sent me to Atlanta, and the Lord's remnant of the Odoric seed.

"EVEREADY"

Hand and Pocket Flashlights

It was a happy thought when the name "Eveready" occurred to the makers, for they are not only ever ready when you most need a light, but are in such compact form that many of them are as easily and conveniently carried in the pocket as your memo. pad. Doctors need them. So do those who motor or those who walk. In fact, every man who goes out of nights will find them indispensable, to say nothing of the convenience of having one in the home.

We have a little folder which pictures the various types in which the "Eveready" lights are made, with descriptions and prices. Want one?
